

CHIEF NEGOTIATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE

Rebuff in Paris to Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The Communist side at the Vietnam peace talks today dismissed as "absurd" part of President Nixon's eight-point peace plan. But the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators adopted a softer line on their own demands.

The Communist delegates declined to comment on five of the points spelled out by Nixon in his proposals to restore peace to Vietnam within a year.

Almost identical Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator, presented the Nixon plan at today's session and asked the Communist side "not to answer hastily and to think over our proposal just as we are thinking about yours."

Lodge took the floor after the negotiators from both Communist delegations had denounced in almost identical terms Nixon's eight-point proposal that the path to peace begin with a mutual withdrawal of all foreign military forces.

The chief North Vietnamese negotiator, Xuan Thuy, dismissed this proposal. The Viet Cong's "foreign minister," Tran Bau Kiem, called the plan an attempt to "pose conditions on the withdrawal of U.S. troops which we have many times rejected."

"The Nixon administration continues to maintain its absurd demands and continues to intensify the war," Thuy said to newsmen as he arrived for the session.

"Only the first blow to answer tricky plots of Americans," is Hanoi report on "general offensive." Story Page 24.

Kiem said "everybody knows that U.S. and satellite troops are the only foreign troops of aggression to be found in South Vietnam."

Both Communist negotiators repeated their demands—contained in the National Liberation Front's 10-point peace package—that the United States must withdraw all its forces from South Vietnam "without posing any condition whatsoever."

Although the Communists sharply attacked the mutual withdrawal proposal, which is covered in the first three points of the Nixon plan, they refrained from attacking others. These dealt with international supervision of the eventual ceasefire and general elections, the exchange of prisoners of war and the neutralization of neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

Compared with their representations in previous sessions, the statements of both Communist delegates were brief and restrained today.

Kiem said Nixon's reaction to the Viet Cong peace plan was "not a proper response to the over-all solution to the South Vietnam problem as set forth by the National Liberation Front."

Diplomatic observers said the Communists were likely to agree to discuss parts of the Nixon plan if the Allies consider some Viet Cong proposals. They said ultimately even the mutual withdrawal issue would be discussed.

Lodge said Thursday the Nixon plan was "revolutionary...constructive, generous and just" and brought "hope for solid negotiations from the other side." He returned from discussions with the President in time for the meeting today.

Fortas Backlash Hitting Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Repercussions from the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas spread throughout the three branches of government today and threatened to extend to other high officials.

There were these developments:

—Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, said the case of Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy and his alleged ties with the bank he formerly headed "seems much more serious than the Fortas affair."

—Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, said he hoped the House Judiciary Committee would investigate Justice William O. Douglas' relationship with the Albert Parvin Foundation. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., called on Douglas to resign.

—Several congressmen criticized Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell for disclosing he turned over to Chief Justice Earl Warren "certain information" about Fortas. Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said the Judiciary Committee should investigate Mitchell.

The Justice Department denied it made any sort of deal with imprisoned financier Louis E. Wolfson to get more information about his connections with Fortas.

Senate Leaders Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen promised that in the future there would be more intensive examination of presidential nominees.

Fortas, 59, resigned Wednesday night—the first justice in the court's history to quit under pressure. The announcement came Thursday morning—11 days after Life magazine revealed he received, but returned 11 months later, a $20,000 fee from the Wolfson family foundation. Fortas was on the bench at the time.

In his memorandum to Warren, Fortas said he agreed to receive a $20,000 annual lifetime fee for services to the foundation because of his interest in its work in racial and religious cooperation. He said he returned the fee when he learned the Securities and Exchange Commission had transferred its investigation of Wolfson's stock dealings to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution.

"There has been no wrongdoing on my part," Fortas said in the memo. "There has been no default in the performance of my judicial duties in accordance with the high standards of the office I hold."

It was learned that from 1962 to 1966 Fortas was an officer of Great America Corp., an insurance holding company in Carson City, Nev. The papers of incorporation for the firm were filed in 1962 by former Nevada Lt. Gov. Clifford Jones, whose gambling license in Las Vegas had been suspended in 1955.

It was revealed Thursday the Justice Department talked to Wolfson at his Florida prison May 4 through his lawyer, telling him he would be forced to testify before a grand jury if he did not cooperate. Wolfson then answered questions put to him by the FBI, a department spokesman said.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, D-Minn., called for action on his bills to outlaw paid outside work—in excess of $500—by officials of all three branches of government and to require full disclosure of source and amount of all income.

Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., called his judiciary subcommittee to meet next week on bills to require full financial disclosure by judges and also to provide machinery for removal of judges for offenses (or inability) not necessarily covered by impeachment process.

"It is well that Justice Fortas resigned for the sake of the country and the Supreme Court," said Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. "It is, indeed, a tragedy, almost Greek in nature."

Jimmy Roosevelt Stabbed by Wife

GENEVA (UPI)—James Roosevelt's third wife Gladys stabbed him in the back Thursday night with his World War II souvenir dagger at the couple's Swiss villa, police reported today.

Out of Danger

The 62-year-old son of the late President was rushed to County Hospital in critical condition. Doctors performed emergency surgery and later pronounced the former congressman from California out of danger.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 52, was admitted to Bel-Air Clinic for observation. Spokesmen for Roosevelt said she had been under treatment for severe depression.

First reports of the incident were confusing because they said Roosevelt had been attacked by "a mentally unbalanced woman" without identifying her. These reports mentioned an argument.

Hours later, Roosevelt's attorney notified newsmen:

JAMES ROOSEVELT

"I am authorized to say that Mr. Roosevelt confirmed today that the incident which has been reported involved his wife. Mr. Roosevelt telephoned us from the hospital this morning and asked us to clear up this fact."

The couple was married in 1956 and have one child, Hall Delano. Roosevelt's earlier marriages to Betsey Cushing, a Boston socialite, and Romelle Schneider, a nurse, ended in divorce. Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President, has five children by the previous marriages.

Police spokesmen, trying to piece together details on the stabbing, said it occurred about 11 o'clock at the Roosevelt villa in the suburb of Vesenaz.

Stumbled to Neighbors

They said Roosevelt was stabbed in the back with the Marine knife and then stumbled to a neighbor's house about 120 feet away. The neighbors called police, an ambulance was dispatched, and Roosevelt was rushed to the hospital.

IOS officials said the dagger was a memento of the war which Roosevelt had kept from his days as a Brigadier General in the Marines.

All Set to Tote That Barge

The tug, Bronx I, cleaves waters of the Rondout Creek as commercial traffic steps up to spring peak along the waterway. Early today a score of empty barges clustered for loading at building material plants along the creek, as the seasonal activity resumes full swing. The weatherman has promised a good weekend for pleasure boaters too. Warmer temperatures and only partly cloudy skies are promised for Saturday and Sunday with an evening shower possible to dampen the scene. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Berkeley Campus Under Emergency

By United Press International

The campus of the University of California at Berkeley was under a declaration of extreme emergency today.

One hundred Case Western Reserve students held Hayden Hall on the Cleveland campus today, demanding release of a report on the city's Glenville sniping incident last July 23.

The protesters said the report is vital to the defense of black militant Fred "Ahmed" Evans, convicted Monday of first-degree murder in the deaths of three policemen and a civilian in the incident. Evans is scheduled to be executed Sept. 22.

On other campuses, a sit-in was in progress at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland while demonstrations continued at Harvard University.

Melee Follows Decision

The Berkeley melee stemmed from a university decision to fence in an area the "street people" had turned into a park, replete with playground equipment, sculpture, grass and brick sidewalk. Early in the day police cleared some 150 persons from the plot to allow workmen to begin construction.

The demonstrators gathered in Sproul Plaza, scene of the free speech protests in 1964, for a noon rally where Dan Diegel, student body president-elect, shouted, "Let's go down and take over the park."

Peace was restored by nightfall and a curfew clamped on the city and campus.

Three hundred chanting Harvard students Thursday marched to a hearing of the school's disciplinary committee and demanded its abolition. They had to use elevators to reach the 10th floor, but were not able to enter the locked-door session.

The committee is investigating the April occupation of University Hall which led to a bloody police sweep of the campus and 184 arrests.

On Other Campuses

New York—The faculty senate at the State University Center at Stony Brook voted Thursday to condemn police for a Monday narcotics raid on the Long Island campus. They also voted to cancel a policy of providing police with information about drug use on campus at the 5,200-student school.

New Jersey—The state Senate Thursday gave final approval to a bill providing a seven-year prison term and a fine of $5,000 for carrying guns on any college campus in the state.

Louisiana—A resolution banning the radical Students for Democratic Society from all campuses of the Louisiana State University system will be considered May 26 by the LSU board of supervisors. It was learned Thursday. SDS has no chapters on LSU campuses.

Cautious Criticism By Doves

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's Vietnam peace proposals, initially praised by many congressmen, are being cautiously criticized as not going far enough by Senate Democratic doves, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

But most of the senators who say Nixon fell short in his latest peace move are willing to give him more time to negotiate a settlement.

Senate Republicans, for the most part, appear unified in supporting Nixon's proposals. Kennedy, the No. 2 Democratic leader, said all Americans hope the President's moves succeed.

"I had hoped, however, that in the interest of decreasing casualties and the hastening of negotiations towards the mutual withdrawal of troops, the President would have called for a significant reduction of U.S. military activity and personnel in South Vietnam," Kennedy said Thursday in a statement.

More Outspoken

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, was more outspoken in expressing "bitter disappointment" at Nixon's speech.

Church charged the Nixon plan for ending the war is the same as that of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., like Church a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview that while he thought the speech constructive, "I too, was disappointed that there wasn't a major new initiative."

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings said "I was disappointed that the speech contained no mention of the need for internal reform in the government of South Vietnam."

Some Running Room

On the GOP side, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said in an interview the President's speech created "running room. Here is a chance to do some negotiating and fruitful negotiating."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., called the speech "a generous, flexible and promising overture. On the basis of these proposals, and other developments which may be expected in the coming months, a just peace can be built."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., praised Nixon's proposals Thursday night in a speech at Waukegan, Ill. He said the President "has the right to expect reasonable confidence assurance and patience, especially from the members of his own party."

Control and Reverse

Paltz Drug Group Has Tough Task

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ

The newly-formed New Paltz Narcotics Guidance Council is a small, ambitious committee confronted with a very difficult task.

That task is to control and hopefully reverse the growing problem of narcotics abuse in the New Paltz area.

The Council, composed of the Rev. John VanNess, a minister, Wendell Harp, an attorney, and Dr. Jeffrey Wiersum, a physician, received encouraging support, in the form of a small budget allotment, from the New Paltz Town Board at its meeting Wednesday night.

Council member Harp, a partner in the law firm of Harp, Hafke, and Harp believes that the narcotics problem in New Paltz is of a "serious nature," and says that the first task of the Council will be to "find where the problem is and what the depth of it is."

Concern Is Escalated

Concern in the community regarding the issue of narcotics abuse has escalated as a result of two incidents.

An article in the February issue of Esquire magazine included a statement alleging that New Paltz was the second most active area in the country for narcotics traffic, and on April 19, a massive raid carried out by state, local and county police, resulted in 16 arrests in New Paltz.

The Council initially plans to conduct an educational and informational campaign in the community by distributing literature, sponsoring speakers, and meeting with civic groups.

Should Include All Schools
According to Dr. Wiersum, recently named chairman of the Council "the educational program should include all the area schools, from grade four on up, including the State University College at New Paltz.

"Also to be included are the churches, P.T.A.'s, women's groups, and any other groups who are encouraged to set up a lecture program or discussion group," he said.

At the Council's initial meeting, on May 8, the possibility of establishing a treatment-counseling information center, at a location in the town was discussed.

"It could be a storefront type operation such as Daytop Village offers," Dr. Wiersum says, "or a methadon treatment clinic similar to the one presently being run by Drs. Henriquez and Wienman at the New Paltz Medical Center, for heroine addicts.

Daytop, which operates a center in Sullivan County, uses a combination of counseling and "cold turkey" drug denial to counter-act addiction. Methadon is a drug which is given to heroin addicts as a non-euphoric substitute.

At the May 8 meeting, it was also decided to look into the possibility of adding two laymen to the Council and also to request assistance from members of the original Drug Abuse Committee for the educational program.

The Council, which is sanctioned by the Town Board, also has the backing of the Ulster County Comprehensive Health Services Council and the New York State Narcotics Commission. Daytop Village and the Teen Challenge program have also indicated their willingness to help if requested.

"Some finances may be obtained from the state," through the Dureya Bill, and hopefully from federal funds, however, private donations will also be solicited," Dr. Wiersum said.

Seven of Eight Attend

Red Hook Candidates in Discussion

RED HOOK

Seven of the eight candidates for an upcoming vacant position on the Red Hook Board of Education discussed issues Thursday night at the high school in a PTA sponsored Meet Your Candidates program. About 50 attended.

After a brief introduction by Raymond Mathison, PTA president, in which he stated "I don't know whether there will be a PTA here next year," Mrs. Robert Greig moderated the discussion.

Each candidate gave a brief synopsis of his or her background, reasons for running for Herbert Petz' seat, and supposed qualifications.

Ralph Douglas stated that he had four children, was educated in Colorado, has been a Red Hook resident for 12 years, was one of the originators of the Recreation Park, and stated his goal as "broad education, balanced with tax relief."

Mrs. Charles Hoffman said she has been in the area since 1941, has five children, "would like to represent the people, for a change," and said that since she does not work, people can find her home to discuss problems. "I am a large taxpayer; do we want what is necessary, or want added frills?"

Donald Moul has been a resident of Red Hook his entire life of 37 years. "I am running because of pride in this community," he said. "I want to 'do my thing' on the board." Moul has been active in sports.

Ed Ranchich has lived in the area for 16 years. "I have listened to the people with whom I have come in contact; they have urged me to run, saying that I am the kind of man that they want," he said. Ranchich is a plumbing contractor.

Donald Skelly, an IBM engineer who works in Kingston, has lived in Red Hook for six years. "I want to repay the educational opportunities that have been afforded myself," said Skelly. "I believe that there is no finer place to live than this community. I am concerned with the alienation of youth; change in our society ought to be reckoned with."

Dr. Carl Stelman, a resident dentist for 10 years, has two children. His wife is a teacher in the Red Hook system. "I have checked with Albany, and there is no conflict of interest on that point," he asserted. "I think the present board is doing an excellent job."

G. Carl Pack, a three-year resident with previous school board experience in Hamilton, N. J., is a Ferroxcube employee in Saugerties. "My priorities have children coming first, taxpayers second, and teachers third," he stated.

Lewis Priven, also a candidate, was unable to attend.

Sample questions, upon which each candidate commented, were tossed out. The first,

"What is the importance of the physical education program, and what are qualifications you would look for in a physical education teacher?"

Pack: "Teacher should get along with the kids." Stelman: "Extra curricular sports more important than classroom."

Douglas: "Classroom sports more important." Ranchich: "Would get best teacher I could afford." Skelly: "Important how teacher treats individuals."

Moul: "Classroom more important." Hoffman: "Disagree with expense of emphasis on extra-curricular. Feel intramural would serve just as well."

Dutchess Feeling— Down in the Dumps

By LYNN MULVANEY

POUGHKEEPSIE — Dutchess County and East Fishkill in particular feels it may be the number one location for the disposal of Westchester County solid wastes.

The Weather

Sun rises at 4:35 a. m.; sun sets at 7:10 p. m., E.D.T. Weather: Mostly Sunny. The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 46 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 73 degrees.

based on a cost analysis report of the Pure Waters Authority.

Among Prime Sites

Dutchess and Ulster are among four counties the authority mentions as prime sites in its report of 100 site appraisals.

According to Herbert Shein, management assistant to Dutchess County, the report indicates that the target for rail-haul disposal because the cost of the proposed solid waste disposal would be less expensive there than in any of the other counties mentioned.

The exact area in Dutchess was pin-pointed Thursday at a six-county meeting of the Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council held in Poughkeepsie to discuss the disposal plan.

Shein said a complete report of the Pure Waters Authority, rather than its eight-page summary, was presented the council. In it is defined the exact location in Dutchess County described as being in the Town of East Fishkill, just east of New York State Rt. 52, southeast of the hamlet of Stormville and about three miles south of Greenhaven State Prison.

Although Dutchess County is familiar with recent Senate and House-passed bills which would curtail the authority's autonomy, it has suggested, Shein indicated, that the strongest way to combat the disposal problem is with a sanitary code. Meanwhile, the bills submitted by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Sen. Jay P. Rollison await the governor's signature. Yesterday's meeting was attended by Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Board who noted that Westchester County itself was not among the site selected for disposal of its own waste.

Code Is Subject

The subject of amending Dutchess County's sanitary code was also undertaken at another meeting of the Dutchess Board of Health yesterday afternoon which was also called to discuss waste disposal matters.

The board is considering endorsing such an amendment, Shein said as the first step toward blocking use of county lands by other counties without home rule sanctions.

The Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council meeting was attended by representatives of Dutchess, Ulster, Greene, Orange and Putnam Counties.

The Mare Island spokesman said all personnel aboard the vessel were accounted for and there were no casualties.

The Navy said the submarine, of the advance Sturgeon class, sank alongside berth 10 of causes not immediately determined. It said there was no explosion, merely a case of sudden flooding.

Saugerties on the Trailers Could Mean 'All Is Forgiven'

By SHANE CROSBY

SAUGERTIES — Passage of the Town of Saugerties revised Trailer Ordinance could mean "all is forgiven" for some 150 trailers in the township that are now considered illegal under the ordinance passed here in 1955.

Town Attorney Louis P. Francello, when prodded by questions from the floor at a public hearing here Thursday, said that although trailers not in parks would still be illegal under the new law if they were placed in the town after passage of the old ordinance. "The town does not want to prosecute 150 owners."

He said trailers in violation of the old law would be "overlooked" under the new ordinance. When Attorney Thomas G. Rea of Saugerties pushed to have Town Supervisor A. Michael Schovel agree or disagree with the town's lawyer, Francello advised the board that they did not have to answer any questions.

Own Opinion

Schovel did not comment on Francello's statement, and the town attorney himself indicated that his opinion was just that and not a binding decision of the board.

Francello said he had heard that there were as many as 150 trailers placed in the town illegally since passage of the 1955 law. The question arose while the board was discussing Section 13 of the law entitled "Application to Existing House Trailers Not Located in Trailer Courts."

The lawyer said that under Section 13 and under the 1955 ordinance, trailers parked outside a legal trailer park in the town since 1955 would still be considered illegal, even though they can now be placed under the new law when adopted.

About 70 residents were in the Saugerties High School to discuss the proposed ordinance in a lengthy session marked by few outbursts.

Many questioned the board's reasoning in adopting the new law, and some charged "discrimination" against trailer owners. Definitions of some terms used by the board were also questioned.

Schovel told those present that the board was there to hear the objections to the new law, in an effort to make changes to "satisfy most of the people."

He said another hearing most likely would take place, saying "after some of the comments here, we got to sit down and consider this more." No date was set for a new hearing, if one is to be held by the board before adoption by the board.

Attorney Francello entered the comments from the floor at one other point before he gave his "all is forgiven" opinion, when he was confronted with a questioner who opposed the ordinance's basic idea of control.

Defiance

"I defy anyone to tell me what to do," said the man from the floor, Francello asked the man if he was in violation of the 1955 ordinance or would he be in violation if the new law were enacted and the man said "Not now—but I will be."

The lawyer told the group that most trailer owners were found to be "fly by night" persons who build up debts in towns and then moved off "in the middle of the night." He said that there are two trailers around his property and that he found them to be friendly, but "generally speaking" trailer owners are poor risks and do not pay "their fair share" of taxes.

"I'll be stuck here 20 years from now paying off the school bonds that educated their children," said Francello.

One trailer owner in the auditorium rose and said "I pay my taxes and I resent that remark." Another had commented that he owned a trailer and was assessed at $1,500, or 15 per cent of his value and paid "my fair share."

Others Chime In

Others chimed in saying the lawyer was opposed to trailers and that his comments amounted to "discrimination."

The attorney and the supervisor both had made remarks earlier in the hearing where Francello said the ordinance would "prevent a ghetto or slum area" of trailers.

Schovel had said in answer to charges of discrimination that "We are not against trailers, as long as they come in and look halfway presentable. You got to start somewhere," he said. Many trailers "are stuck here and there . . . we want them to be a credit to the community, not a discredit."

Leonard Robbins told the board that trailer owners "have chosen their environment . . .

The first place winner of each school will compete for the grand prize, a bicycle donated by Montgomery Ward of Kingston. High Speed Auto Chase Ends in Mishap, Arrest

A high speed chase through two counties on the Taconic State Parkway Thursday night ended in the Dutchess County Town of Milan. Climaxing the chase was a spectacular motor vehicle mishap and the arrest of the driver on criminal and traffic charges.

Clavarrack State Police said the operator Paul T. Loudon, 23 of Ghent was treated for contusions and abrasions of the body at Northern Dutchess Hospital and was later arrested for third degree burglary, obscenities, speeding and driving without eyeglasses. Loudon's license specifies he must wear corrective lenses while driving a motor vehicle. The obscenities charge stems from the fact obscene pictures were found in his possession, troopers said.

He was committed to Columbia County Jail for grand jury action in lieu of $750 bail when he appeared before a Clavarrack town justice.

A passenger in the car, Sterling Stemp, 18 of Menands was treated for multiple contusions of the body and lacerations of the right arm.

Trooper W. R. Blackie reported he followed the Loudon vehicle proceeding south on the Taconic in Columbia County. The chase ended about a half mile south of Route 199, Town of Milan.

Trooper Blackie said the car ran off the pavement onto the mall, returned to the pavement, fish tailed for 500 feet, ran off the highway over the mall and up an embankment, continued on for 120 feet, overturned, skidded on its roof across the southbound lanes, ran off west side of the parkway and hit four guide posts, overturned again on its wheels and skidded 100 feet to a halt among some brush and small trees.

Troopers said Loudon was arrested in connection with the burglary of a gas station in the Town of Austerlitz.

Tyrrell Wants Decent Housing For Everyone

KINGSTON James J. Tyrrell, a Republican candidate for Kingston mayor, said today that decent housing for all city residents will be a top priority item in his administration.

Tyrrell said he is interested in attracting private developers to the city and that this will be done during the first two years of his administration. The candidate said he prefers the construction of individual homes in the Broadway East Urban Renewal project as opposed to apartment houses. "I believe an individual will have more pride in property where there is a backyard and a front yard, instead of apartment house surroundings," he said. Tyrrell concluded, "New housing should be constructed within the confines of the colonial atmosphere of the city and I feel the Kingston Housing Authority has done a fine job with Colonial Gardens and Wiltwyck Gardens."

Fish Endorses Draft Lottery

KINGSTON Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. today solidly endorsed President Nixon's request for establishment of a lottery system of the draft, to be confined to 19 year olds.

"The idea of reducing vulnerability to the draft to one year, while spreading eligibility to every young man when he reaches the age of 19 is fairness," Congressman Fish said. Congressman Fish explained he felt President Nixon placed his finger on the core of the problems that beset the present draft, when he pointed out that some sort of choice would always be necessary as long as the supply of men exceed the requirements.

"I agree with the President when he states that because of this the Government bears a heavy moral obligation to spread the risk of induction among all those who are liable," Congressman Fish said. "I also believe that the exposure to this risk should be cut to as low a working minimum as possible. Certainly the one year vulnerability is far better than the present seven year eligibility."

The agency has set aside $720,000 for the construction of the 400-car garage which is the state's share of the Uptown Project.

A non-conforming proposal was received from Volume Indoor Corp. of New York City in the amount of $758,500 for a 410-car garage.

The bids will now go to the agency for study.

Edinger Notes Reduction In Emission of Pollutants

KINGSTON

"Cement manufacturing in the East Kingston area is probably the single most important air pollutant in the county. But, comparing air samplings of 1963 with 1968 shows considerable reduction in the amounts of pollutants being emitted," according to Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation.

At the request of the Ulster County Department of Health, Edinger has prepared a statement on the current status of air pollution control activities of the department for presentation to the board at its May meeting.

Ulster County's principal air pollution problems are caused by production of cement and lightweight aggregate, mining of stone, burning of solid wastes, egg-producing chicken farms and household heating. Samplings of pollution from cement manufacturing indicate that the average tons per square mile per month in 1963 averaged 67, compared to 41 in 1968, a reduction of 38.8 per cent.

This improvement has been brought about by increased efficiency of the use of existing control equipment. It is not expected that the situation will be improved much more than has already been achieved even with new equipment to be installed, Edinger said.

"Lightweight aggregate production occurs at three localities in the county: solite in the Town of Saugerties, colite in East Kingston, and nytralite in the Town of Ulster. Air sampling equipment operated at Mt. Marion, Saugerties and West Camp reveal that solite is complying with state emission standards. However, the company is investigating emission of gases and planning the installation of additional control equipment. Nytralite has been having some difficulty with their control operations and are planning to install new control equipment. The colite operation at East Kingston is difficult to separate from the cement production pollution.

"Mining of stone is a dusty dirty operation which can be controlled only by use of water sprays. In freezing weather even this method cannot be used.

"Egg-producing chicken farms also produce chicken manure and dead birds. The dead birds can be buried or incinerated, but so far no one has devised a satisfactory system for disposal of chicken manure. One ray of hope exists for eventual elimination of these unusual air pollutants. The fact that these are marginal operations makes them vulnerable to decreases in the sale price of eggs, and two farms of 50,000 and 60,000 hens have recently gone into bankruptcy. A third farm with 150,000 birds was destroyed by fire not long ago.

"The burning of solid wastes is an important air pollutant. Ulster County has 14 public dumps and 10 major private ones. All but three were burned in 1966-67. At the present time intermittent burning at the Ulster dump and almost continuous burning occurs at the Marbltown and Rochester dumps. The cost of initiating and maintaining a good sanitary land fill to prevent such burning is a real addition to the budget of the towns and villages in the county.

"Household heating causes a great deal of the basic air pollution in the county. In addition, industrial heating is also a real problem. No less than 50 new installations producing more than a million British thermal units per hour have recently been reviewed by the Department prior to installations. Finally, seasonal heating methods used in times of frost to protect fruit trees is no small problem in the county and a source of many complaints.

"Air pollution is a real phenomenon requiring constant vigilance to keep it at a minimum. Some accomplishments have already been made. Others will follow," he concluded.

Fortas' Contributions on Bench

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Justice Abe Fortas' most significant contribution to Supreme Court decision-making was the creation of a whole new set of rights for youngsters in trouble with the law.

The 1967 ruling, in the case of young Gerald Gault of Globe, Ariz., created an upheaval in juvenile procedure that has not yet subsided. Historically, children's cases had been considered civil, rather than criminal in nature on the theory a child could best be helped by a fatherly judge in a nonpublic hearing.

But Fortas said "The features of the juvenile system which its proponents have asserted are of unique benefit will not be impaired by constitutional domestication."

Courts Provide Protections
The opinion required that juvenile courts provide defendants with key procedural protections afforded adults in the bill of rights. These included the rights of a lawyer, written notice of charges, the right to confront and cross-examine complainants and protection against self-incrimination.

Fortas spoke for the court in two major business cases, one approving the Penn-Central Railroad merger, largest in the country's history; the other, that General Motors violated antitrust laws by blocking Chevrolet sales through discount houses in the Los Angeles area.

In other noteworthy opinions for the court, Fortas struck down Arkansas's "Monkey law" forbidding the teaching of evolution in public schools; upheld the right of Iowa public school students to wear black arm bands as a Vietnam war protest; and backed the Justice Department's use of post-civil war statutes in unpunished civil rights murders.

Expresses Philosophy
A study of opinions written by Fortas in his four years on the court shows he often expressed his philosophy in dissent.

One outstanding such opinion criticized Life magazine, the publication whose story about his connection with the Wolfson family foundation brought about his abrupt departure from the court.

Accusing the magazine of ignoring "the truth" in a folder on the desk of one of its writers, Fortas said:

"The standard of a 'reasonable investigation' is certainly a minimum yardstick by which to measure the liability of publishers. It is certainly not incompatible with the full flavor of the First Amendment and disregard of this standard in the circumstances is recklessness."

When the court upheld a Mississippi antipicketing law, Fortas disagreed on grounds the marchers were improperly arrested "for the purpose of putting a stop to a peaceful, orderly demonstration protected by the First Amendment."

In a dissent from the court's validation of New York's text book loan law as applied to parochial schools, he described the statutes as "an unconstitutional use of public funds to support an establishment of religion."

He also dissented from the court's refusal to lay down a constitutional rule against punishing chronic alcoholics for being drunk in public. He called it "cruel and unusual punishment" to penalize a man for a condition he cannot change.

New Reading Program Due at Red Hook School

RED HOOK — A new reading program will be initiated at St. Christopher's School in Red Hook beginning in September.

The program announced by Principal Sister Grace Marian, will affect grades one through three. The system, a basal reading series being developed by Albert A. Harris for the MacMillan Company, will have many aspects that the present one does not.

A change is felt to be needed in order to prepare a curriculum for the next 10 years. Materials to be used by the children will be much more attractive, and will branch out into stories of the modern community and modern living.

Sister Grace stated that "the parents role will be to encourage the children to read. The best way to do this is to read yourself and enjoy it. It is more damaging to a child for a parent to force him to read out loud or to force him to learn words. No matter what level of reading your child does, respect what he is doing, as he is doing it to the best of his ability."

Sister Grace, gave a series of guidelines for parents to follow. Enthusiasm was deemed important, but pressure negative. One of the senior authors working on this new program for MacMillan Co. will visit the school in June to conduct a workshop for the teachers, and perhaps for interested parents.

Beef Up Protection for Rocky

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Increased protection was ordered for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit to Nicaragua today after a second flareup of violence during the New York governor's stay in neighboring Honduras.

Reliable sources said the Nicaraguan government ordered more plainclothesmen to duty amid reports that university students were planning protests during Rockefeller's fact-finding visit for President Nixon.

A sizable group of U.S. Secret Servicemen also was detailed to protect the governor and his party of more than 20 experts. Press reports from Honduras said the Secret Service handled local newsmen roughly and would not let them near Rockefeller.

As in Guatemala earlier, there has been sharp criticism of the Rockefeller mission by some politicians and businessmen. The Social Christian party called the visit useless.

In Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, students burned a Honduran flag Thursday night on the steps of the National Cathedral where a youth was killed by a policeman during an anti-U.S. demonstration the day before. The students rejected a $400 scholarship offered by the Rockefeller party in memory of the slain youth, shouting: "The blood of a Honduran cannot be bought!"

Violence broke out for the second time during Rockefeller's visit when about 50 students left the sanctuary of the university campus and marched through downtown streets chanting, "Death to the military dictatorship." Club-swinging police charged into the crowd, but no serious injuries were reported. Rockefeller said the death of the 19-year-old student Wednesday was a tragedy and sent flowers and a message of sympathy to the boy's family. Police said the shooting was accidental. Medical students disputed this, commenting in a statement: "Will the public believe that a firearm can accidentally shoot three bullets into the upper part of the body of a running person?"

Rockefeller spent Thursday in meetings with finance ministers of the five Central American Common Market countries.

Thompson Off Bunting Ticket

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — James B. Thompson, Republican candidate for alderman-at-large, today notified the board of elections and his running mate, Clifford V. Bunting, that he was not accepting the nomination.

Bunting could not be reached for comment.

Several Reasons

Thompson, in a letter to mayoral candidate Bunting, writes, "There are several reasons which led to my action (to refuse the nomination): The nature of my profession (Thompson is news director at Radio Station WGHQ) under federal law it would seem to require my employer to grant equal time on the air to any opponent, regardless of the nature of my broadcast." Thompson goes on to write that attorneys for the station had contacted the Federal Communications Commission for a specific ruling on Thompson's case and as of today, there had been no answer from the FCC.

Thompson adds, "Having had two weeks to consider all the ramifications of my candidacy, I realize that I have several long range commitments, including the Kingston Recreation Commission, the Kingston Kiwanis Club and the Senior Citizens Advisory Council.

Thompson also says, "As you know, when you first approached me to consider the matter, I expressed a sincere interest. However, as I was about to leave on a one-week vacation, I could not make a firm commitment and said that I would agree to have petitions circulated, bearing my name, along with yours, provided that I would not have to make a final decision until certain matters were resolved."

Drew 302 Signatures

The Bunting-Thompson petition drew a total of 302 signatures in the seven days it was circulated. The party's unofficial nominees, James J. Tyrrell for mayor and Burton C. Davis for alderman-at-large, drew 490. The other candidate for the Republican nomination, John R. Mayone, had 259 signatures.

Official declarations also were received from aldermanic candidates Mrs. Ruth Maines (First Ward), Anthony Crespiro (Sixth Ward), Thomas Davitt (Seventh Ward) and legislator candidate William B. Merrill. All are Republicans. The GOP Committee on Vacancies has named Elmer Carney to run in the First Ward, Brendon Alexander in the Sixth and Richard Cahill in the Seventh. A replacement for Merrill will be named by Tuesday.

Bayard Rustin's Advice

In his column in today's issue of The Freeman, Drew Pearson points to Bayard Rustin's timely advice to black student militants who couldn't get it any straighter than from a man who has made his way in "the real world." To college and university officials, he was just as plain-spoken.

Rustin says the fundamental mistake of the black nationalist movement is that it doesn't comprehend that class ultimately is a more driving force than color and that an effort to build a society for American Negroes that is based on color alone is doomed to failure.

Rustin's credentials as a civil rights leader are tops. He is executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, dedicated to the improvement of Negroes. It was he who organized the 1963 March on Washington. He has been in the forefront of the movement before and since. When he said recently that Negro college students were suffering from "integration shock," they had better listen to him.

"What in hell are soul courses worth in the real world?" Rustin asked the Negro students who are demanding black courses in American colleges and universities across the country. "No one gives a damn if you've taken soul courses. They want to know if you can do mathematics and write a correct sentence."

University heads also would do well to follow his advice to "stop capitulating to the stupid demands of Negro students. Instead, see that they get the remedial training they need."

Rustin was stressing the belief that education for the Negro is inferior. "Bring them into the university with the understanding that they must have remedial work they require," he advised. "The easy way out is to let them have black courses and their own dormitories and give them degrees."

Radicals on the campus, both black and white, should heed his call to get on with the business of getting an education. They are not worth much without it. And that is what they are in college for, not to raise hell, to use his words.

Law and Order Wins

A 41-year-old police detective without political experience led a field of three in the race for Mayor of Minneapolis and eliminated the candidate of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, which now holds the post. Charles Stenvig campaigned as an independent and must face Dan Cohen, City Council President and Republican candidate, in a run-off June 10.

Mr. Stenvig heavily emphasized law and order in his primary campaign. "The little people are tired of city hall politicians knuckling under to hoodlum elements," he said. "It is time to give the city back to the good, honest, law-abiding citizens."

Mr. Stenvig is president of the Minneapolis Police Officers Federation, to which most of the city's 800 policemen belong. He has fought the City Administration and City Council over wages and fringe benefits. After students occupied the administration building at the University of Minnesota in January, Mr. Stenvig was instrumental in initiating grand jury action, which led to indictments against three leaders of the sit-in before the university administration had its own investigation.

It is ironic that the Soviet trade newspaper Trud criticized President Nixon for not settling the Vietnam war in his first 100 days. The fact is, the Soviet Union is in the way of a fair settlement. The war will end when the Soviets and Communist China back a settlement.

David Lawrence Says

Congress Likely to Approve Changes in Draft System

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's proposals for important changes in some of the provisions of the draft system are likely to be approved by Congress. Unquestionably there is a good deal of dissatisfaction over the existing method, and the President's plan for revision of the draft would reduce the period of uncertainty for a young man from seven years to one year.

The means that, instead of waiting for the draft to be applied upon the basis of the oldest to the youngest, the young man would be subject to the draft only while he is in the "prime-age" group of 19-year-olds. It has long been argued that the present arrangement makes a young man uncertain about his status unless he is called prior to the time he reaches the age of 26. Many have chosen to remove the uncertainty by going into the military service immediately after graduation from college — just at a time when they were ready to engage in some occupation or profession.

When the GI Bill of Rights was passed, for instance, and the government made available financial assistance to veterans, tens of thousands of boys who had served in the Korean War went back to their colleges or universities, and actually got better marks in their studies than they had made before they left. It was agreed by academicians that the young men had achieved a maturity during their military careers which enabled them to do better when they returned to their studies in college.

The effect of the changes proposed by President Nixon would be to make it possible for young men to know in their 19th year whether they are going to be selected. Once they reach the age of 20, they will either have been eliminated by the random selection system or will have obtained a deferment for the remainder of their college course. The President says:

"The present draft arrangements make it extremely difficult for most young people to plan intelligently as they make some of the most important decisions of their lives, decisions concerning education, career, marriage, and family."

Mr. Nixon's plan of making a "youngest-first" order of call would mean that each individual would get a decisive answer as to whether he would be drafted and could make plans accordingly, because he would be subject to the draft only for the one year in which he is in the prime-age group—namely, 19-years old.

Student deferments would be continued, but Mr. Nixon proposed that the induction of men who are engaged in graduate studies should be postponed until the end of the full academic year during which they are first called to service. The purpose of this is to provide a less-damaging interruption to their education, since financial arrangements often have been made for a full year of schooling. There is to be no other modification of the present policy against graduate-school deferments, with exceptions only for students in the medical and allied fields who are subject to a later special draft.

All of these changes, if adopted by Congress, would not be put into operation at once due to a desire to take care of current anticipated draft calls, and also to give time to establish the random system, which really selects by lot.

The President is of the opinion that ultimately Congress should end the draft law and rely upon an all-volunteer army. This is undoubtedly preferred by Congress, but some of the military men are not sure such a system will supply the manpower needed. For, as international problems continue to require the stationing of American forces in various countries throughout the world, it remains to be seen whether enough men will volunteer to meet the requirements of the army, navy and air force.

The draft system has never been popular, and there is no assurance that parents will prefer to have their sons go into the military service at 19, rather than at some other age. But the new plan presented by Mr. Nixon alleviates to some extent the present unsatisfactory system. The only real cure for the draft, however, is to improve world conditions so that large standing armies will no longer be necessary.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The wonder of all wonders is the Gulf Stream. I have fish this deep blue river which curls around the middle of the North Atlantic like a hangman's noose. It is a river within an ocean. On my boat, Away We Go IV, I've clocked it at two knots northbound at Port Everglades and, if the breeze is out of the south with muscles, two and a half knots.

It cools the Florida East Coast in summer, and it drops a warm wet mist on Great Britain in winter. Like infinity, it has no beginning, no end. On the flying bridge, you clear Port Everglades and head dead east and the reef water is jade and then it drops off into a cobalt blue. Nine miles out, you sit on the flying bridge squinting into the brazen brass coils of the sea, and a north-south line of weed appears.

On the far side of it, the Gulf Stream is purplish-blue. As it moves north, the Gulf Stream will be smooth if the breeze moves north, ironing the wrinkles out of this scarf. If the wind fights the Gulf Stream, you will see twelve foot waves which roll under your keel like the roofs of bungalows.

Once I saw a baby whale, about 20 feet long, coming up from the big seas, his hide glistening like a varnished teakwood table. What was unusual is that whales are animals, and they travel in families. No other spouts were in sight. He was an orphan.

There is a current which comes westerly out of the Berries and when it fights the Gulf Stream, it is called The Tongue of the Ocean. It loses the battle in leaping white spume, but once a year the school tuna come in on this tide and they run to four hundred pounds apiece. They are headed for the Gulf Stream and run north to Nova Scotia, and they never guess that one day behind them are the huge blackfish, whales which run to 75 feet in length.

A blackfish counts a 400-pound tuna as a mouthful and he cannot settle for small fish. He eats big or he dies. Ernest Hemingway, who used to fish the Pillar out of Key West and Cuba, wrote about the Gulf Stream but he became lost in wonderment and words. The best writing on the subject is by Jack Stark of Miami. He says that the Gulf Stream churns north at 300 billion tons of water per hour. He refers to the Gulf Stream as a snake with its tail in its mouth. The deep running fish will not live in the Gulf Stream. Only the surface fighters like it — tuna, wahoo, marlin, kingfish, bull dolphin, blackfish, porpoise.

Much of it is beyond definition or reason. It runs clockwise around the Atlantic, but there is an opposite current in the South Atlantic which balances the majestic pool. Between Miami and Bimini, the Gulf Stream is two feet lower on the Miami side, although no one can figure out why. A good moon will make it race in certain areas at seven knots. If that is true, why don't the swift parts separate from the slow?

In some areas — Key West is one—the Labrador current joins the Gulf Stream, but, being colder, the Labrador current runs beneath the Gulf Stream. A couple of years ago, the Gulf Stream shifted at Nantucket, and oceanographers at Woods Hole became alarmed.

In 1882, it shifted overnight off Newfoundland and seven thousand square miles of warm water fish died in cold water. Christopher Columbus, caught in a dead calm in the Sargasso Sea, noticed that a wood spar floated past his ship. Eric the Red used the Gulf Stream to get home to Scandinavia without knowing where the current came from.

Today, southbound oil tankers headed for the Gulf of Mexico remain close to shore in Florida waters because it would cost each ship two miles an hour in speed — 48 per day — to remain in the Gulf Stream. Those headed northbound use the Gulf Stream to give them an added two miles per hour in speed for which they do not have to pay.

Sometimes we come back from the stream skunked. No fish. You can watch a five-hundred-pound lemon shark loaf across the skipping baits and he is more than half the size of our 35-foot boat and sometimes a school of porpoises, grinning impishly, will corner a hundred green and yellow dolphin and suddenly the sea will erupt with a fountain of fish, jumping straight up, arcing outward and splashing, and racing toward the center again.

It's the wonder of all wonders of the world: the Gulf Stream. . . .

Drew Pearson Says Blount Threatens to Resign As the Postmaster General

Student Revolt

As early as Feb. 18, Drew Pearson reported on his visit to some fifty American college campuses in the past two years, and concluded that the American student revolt could not be appeased. Pearson paid tribute to the alertness and dedication of modern day students, but reported that an unreasonable minority was trying to disrupt education for the majority.

Pearson wrote several columns along this line well in advance of other columnists who have now followed, and President Nixon who made speech along the same line on April 29.

WASHINGTON — After bumping his head against the federal bureaucracy for four months, Postmaster General Winton Blount is ready to return to the construction business. He has threatened privately to resign.

As a construction tycoon, the hard-headed Blount could rearrange the landscape with his bulldozers. But as Postmaster General, he has found it next to impossible to rearrange the postal service. He has pushed against the massive bureaucracy with bulldozer force, but he has made virtually no progress.

His plan to put the Post Office on a businesslike basis by transforming it into a giant TVA-like corporation has run into the powerful opposition of the letter carriers. They have been swarming all over Capitol Hill, buttonholing their Congressmen, to block Blount's plan.

Most Congressmen, already sore at Blount for depriving them of postal patronage, have happily agreed with the mail carriers. In fact, the postal lobby is so powerful that President Nixon apparently has had second thoughts about Blount's proposals. At least, the Postmaster General has complained privately about lukewarm support from the White House.

If he now carries out his threat, he will be the first to leave the Nixon Cabinet.

At a secret strategy session inside the White House, President Nixon talked over with Republican Congressional leaders his plans to feed the hungry.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin led off with a blunt admission that the food-stamp program has been badly administered. Although all states are now distributing either surplus food or food stamps, he reported, the benefits aren't going to the people who are most in need.

However, he still felt that the best way to feed the hungry was to give them food stamps which they could redeem at their grocery stores for the food they wanted. He favored an expanded food-stamp program and an extended school-lunch program.

He pointed out that in impoverished areas children receive more than half of their daily food requirements from hot school lunches. Yet this vital food source was cut off during the summer vacation. He urged that school lunches be provided in these areas the year around.

"Malnutrition," he declared, "can be wiped out." "Why," asked the President, "shouldn't the Advertising Council do something instructive on this?"

Hardin said the food advertisers already were offering diet information over TV to help the poor.

Arizona's Congressman John Rhodes suggested surplus food was so unpalatable that even the hungry could scarcely eat it. Don Rumsfeld, the President's new anti-poverty czar, reported that the health, Education, and Welfare Department was conducting a study to see what could be done about this.

Originally, the President had intended to deal with malnutrition in his own time, after he had prepared a comprehensive program and had found the money to finance it. But testimony before Sen. George McGovern's Committee on Hunger in America stimulated Nixon into immediate action.

It will get under way about June 1, under the leadership of former Sen. Claude Pepper, now Congressman from Florida, and will stage hearings in major cities throughout the country. The touring committee also will include Reps. Martha Griffiths, Mich., Robert Nix, Pa., Jerome Waldie, Calif., all Democrats; with Albert Watson, S. C., Charles Wiggins, Calif., and Robert Denney, Neb., Republicans.

Aimed primarily at the current wave of street crime, the investigation will delve into its causes and extent, the adequacy of law enforcement, reciprocity of information among police agencies, narcotics traffic, crime prevention, and the treatment and rehabilitation of law violators.

"The Kefauver investigation focused primarily on organized crime," explains Pepper, "but this won't be our sole or even major interest. We are chiefly concerned with crime as it affects the ordinary citizen in his home, on the city streets and our highways."

"We hope to be a catalytic agent to curb and, more important, prevent crime. We also plan to implement legislation the data that has been accumulated by various presidential commissions, but not yet written into law."

Advice to Black Militants
Bayard Rustin, the Negro who organized the famous 1963 civil rights march on Washington, has this advice for black student militants:

"The Ku Klux Klan said, 'We will be violent as a means of impressing our will on the situation.' Now a small number of black people use violence and threats to attempt to obstruct the democratic process."

"What is essential and what we must not lose sight of is that true self-respect and a true sense of image are the results of a social process and not merely a psychological state of mind."

"It is utterly unrealistic to expect the Negro middle class to behave on the basis of color alone. They will behave, first of all, as middle class people."

"The minute Jews got enough money to move off Allen Street, they went to West End Avenue. As soon as the Irish could get out of Hell's Kitchen, they beat it to what is now Harlem. Who thinks that the Negro middle classes are going to stay in Harlem?"

"I believe that the fundamental mistake of the black nationalist movement is that it does not comprehend that class ultimately is a more driving force than color and that any effort to build a society for American Negroes that is based on color alone is doomed to failure."

SDS Instructs Its Members How to Infiltrate Industry

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Documents which have come into the hands of this reporter indicate the thoroughness with which the organizers of this year's campus "force-ins" are preparing for their move into industry.

The effectiveness of the student-labor alliance in France last year had a pronounced effect on riot leadership here. The French results contrast with what one SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) instruction letter calls their "frustrating and often demoralizing experience" here in the United States the past 12 months.

"Students and middle-class people...are not powerful enough to stop the war machine. Closing down our schools is not enough. Workers produce and move the goods that are used in the war, and it is they who are primarily forced to fight the war. They can stop it..."

An SDS "Work-In Organizers Manual" explains the primary target companies and outlines the techniques student activists are to use in getting jobs in target firms. Excerpts from that manual follow:

"Job seekers should try to get hired in plants or transport depots that have several hundred (400 minimum) workers. In larger plants, such as GM (General Motors), GE (General Electric), United Airlines, Pennsy RR, etc., there is a greater tendency for workers to regard themselves as workers, with less illusions about becoming a 'boss'...In large plants in national unions there is a greater chance that the workers will become part of mass strike movements, rebellions against sellout leaderships conflict with the government due to 'national interests' injections, etc., which might create the basis for greater mutual exchange about questions relating to opposition to the government's policies..."

"(Larger) wholesale and retail outfits within the city proper could be...advantageous...large mail-order houses (Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward department stores)...Other such places could include the telephone company, gas and light company, mass utilities (if privately owned)..."

(When submitting a false work history) "make sure your 'former boss' has the story straight..."

"Some places give aptitude tests. Don't show off. If you're taking the test with other job seekers, try to see how far (number of questions) they're getting and adjust accordingly. If you do too well, they may be...suspicious. A group should gather all information from each successive jobseeker so that the next ones will be better prepared..."

"If you have any physical defects which can't be detected from a normal physical examination, don't mention them..."

"(In) any interview... (usually) the less said, the better. Don't volunteer information. Just answer what is asked..."

"In general...seek unskilled jobs...In most cases it would probably be best not to mention that you are a student... (but apply as someone who has worked since graduation from high school), which means you have to have a place or person who will say you worked there for the past one to four years. Each area should develop 'background' like this for their group..."

"If places require a 'non-Communist' or 'nonsubversive' signature, sign it. You're not breaking any law. If it's engaged in government work, and you would be breaking a law, it will be so stated on the application. Discuss this beforehand with your group."

"You should be at your first place looking at around 8:30 or 9 a.m. It's hard to get a job if you start at 2 p.m. You generally should not wear a suit and tie or fancy dress, but don't dress like a slob..."

Rhinebeck Mansion — Legend of Tragedy

Fabled Grasmere Going on Auction Block

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

RHINEBECK In 1775 it was the scene of a sad leave-taking between General Richard Montgomery and his wife, Janet Livingston Montgomery, as the young officer answered George Washington's call to join his newly formed continental army. All unknown, Montgomery would never see his wife or his 800 acres of Rhinebeck land again, for he was marching off to his death in the bloody battle of Quebec. Not long thereafter, it was the scene of the planting of a majestic Avenue of Locusts (still standing today) by the bereaved widow in memory of her husband and his gallant men. Forty years later, those who assembled in its garden overlooking the Hudson grew strangely silent as the mournful booming of cannon resounded from a boat drifting slowly down the river far below. The boat was dent and men and women of a funeral barge and it carried high title. Almost totally destroyed by fire in 1824, it was rebuilt on the original foundation; was the residence of a judge, still another senator and a famed ornithologist. The and a famed ornithologist.

Scene of Auction

Now, in 1969, it will be the scene of an auction and onto its 40 acres of protected parkland where wild deer roam will surge hundreds of bidders, intent on purchasing its paintings and portraits, its gold sconces and silk brocade chairs, its 18th century chandeliers and teak wood statues, and its gold Louis XVI mirrors.

Grasmere, one of the Hudson Valley's most beautiful and historic mansions, is going on the block. On May 23 and 24, the entire contents of the house will be sold and, shortly thereafter, the Georgian style residence of red brick and white marble will be put up for sale.

Located on Mill Road just south of Rhinebeck, fabled Grasmere—with its legend of tragedy—has been the home of Louise Clews, former 11th Duchess of Argyll, since 1954. When she purchased the estate, little of its former grandeur remained. The task of bringing Grasmere back to stunning life became a "labor of love" for its new owner, the daughter of celebrated American sculptor Henry Clews, from whom she inherited a deep feeling for all the arts and a quest for beauty.

Over the past 15 years she has used her flair for interior decoration and antiques from all over the world to restore the charm and elegance of this mansion on the Hudson. But now, like the ill-fated Janet Livingston before her, she has tired of the solitary life that is hemmed in by Grasmere's brick and marble ballustrades. More interested in joining her son and his wife and other relatives in Europe, she is relinquishing this American chateau and its exquisite furnishings to the public auction block.

Preview Exhibit

Those who attend the auction preview Wednesday, May 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and thumb through the catalogue, will be treated to an exhibit of rare in this day and age. Grasmere's entrance hall is dominated by tall teak wood statues, carved oak and Cordova leather cassones, Wedgewood clocks, Georgian chairs covered in red silk brocade, and a portrait of Elizabeth of Russia, daughter of Catherine the Great, painted in the 1700's by Nattier.

Those who return for the auction Thursday and Friday will find themselves bidding on Chippendale chairs and fine English cabinets and consoles from the drawing room. Eighteenth century mirrors finished in gold leaf, red velvet curtains, and Hepplewhite chairs will come from the library to meet their fate beneath the auctioneer's hammer. Georgian silverware and Clews Blue Ware and Pottery will flow from the dining room to the block, as will Sheraton sideboards and armchairs from this room. Chinese screens and cabinets will be cleared from the Morning Room, and four-poster Sheraton beds will find their way downstairs from the second floor.

By auction's end, Grasmere will be an empty shell and the house itself (which Louise Clews insists is still not sold, but which was the scene of a gala masked ball only last weekend) could well be purchased by a new owner interested in subdividing it into apartments. If so, it would mark the end of its history and heritage.

Four Men Fined $600 On Gambling Charges

KINGSTON — Four Kingston men arrested Thursday afternoon on gambling charges entered guilty pleas and paid a total of $600 in fines when they appeared in city court before Special City Judge George Beck.

The defendants and fines paid were Albert Whitaker, 42 of 51 Albany Avenue, $100, Arthur Markie, 51 of 178 Downs Street, $200, Earl Carl Jr., 32 of 40 West Chester Street, $200, and James Fitzgerald, 43 of 14 BCI at Lake Katrine Head-Ravine Street, $100. The men who paid the $200 fines were second offenders. The charge was possession of policy records, second degree.

Whitaker was picked up at Pride Cleaners on Albany Avenue; Markie at Art's Smoke Shop, 656 Broadway; Carl at Carl's Hot Weiners, 674 Broadway and Fitzgerald at his home.

The simultaneous arrests were directed by Lt. Lemuel F. Howard of the City Detective Division and Senior Inv. Edward Shannon of State Police BCI at Lake Katrine Headquarters.

Three Accepted To West Point

POUGHKEEPSIE — Two Ulster County and one Schoharie County nominee have been accepted for admission to the U. S. Naval Academy starting June 30, according to announcement made today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

The two young men from Ulster are Thomas A. Fitzgerald of 94 Clinton Avenue, Kingston and Jack Rower of RD 2, Wallkill.

Jacques Carbonneau of Cobleskill was also named. The three young men selected were from a list of qualified alternates, Congressman Fish explained and were not direct nominees. "These young men successfully completed and were selected in order of merit."

Congressman Fish said that lists of qualified alternates are prepared to fill vacancies where possible candidates actually nominated by a Congressman for one reason or another, do not meet academy requirements.

"These nominees selected as qualified alternates are certainly to be commended, as they have not only met the high qualification standards for admission, but they have surpassed these requirements, and have been successful in the exacting competition for appointment to the Naval Academy under the qualified alternate system," Congressman Fish said.

Murphy, Powell and Adam Clayton Powell. The field for the Democratic mayoral primary stood at six today after withdrawals of Reps. John M. Murphy and Adam Clayton Powell.

Murphy told a news conference Thursday he had decided he could not win, after a poll showed him getting only 8 to 10 per cent of the primary vote. He threw his support to former Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Powell, speaking in Niagara Falls, told a student audience a lack of funds and his friendship with Rep. Hugh L. Carey, the City Council president candidate on Wagner's ticket, led to his withdrawal.

The other candidates remaining are City Comptroller Mario A. Procaccino, Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo, Rep. James H. Scheuer, author Norman Mailer, and John W. Seder, who said he filed only to dramatize what he regards as the welfare crisis.

Saugerties Board Head Gives Reply

ARTHUR SIMMONS

SAUGERTIES

Recent news releases attributed to the Saugerties Teachers Association or its negotiating team have apparently been designed to give the public false impressions, according to Saugerties' Board of Education President Arthur Simmons.

President Simmons explained today, "The statement that the Board's negotiation team, comprised of the administrative assistant and the principals, took a negative position in the negotiations proceedings is absolutely false. Inclusion of Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, in their statement hinges on being defamatory. The Board has been completely aware of the procedure which its negotiating team has followed, supports its actions without reservation, and denies the false statements of 'negative position'."

"Believing that the present contract with the Saugerties Teachers Association, which expires on June 30, 1969, is a fair contract which has served its purpose well, the Board offered the teachers this same contract at the beginning of the negotiation procedures and was prepared to bargain in good faith on the completely out-of-line salary and other demands of the teachers. The salary increase requested would on its own, not considering other budgetary increases, have raised the tax rate by an estimated $40 plus per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Other demands are aimed at taking control of the schools away from the Board and school administrators and giving it to the teachers association."

Simmons went on to say that the state has charged local boards with the responsibility of operating school systems with the aid of their administrative staffs, and the voters have elected board of education members whom they wish to assume these responsibilities.

"The Saugerties Board of Education," he stated, "has not reached the point where it is ready to surrender its powers and duties to the teachers. The Board and the administrative staff, including all school principals, is striving to provide excellent educational opportunities for the pupils at as low a cost as possible to the taxpayers. Our procedures are and have been in accordance with state statutes. We have nothing to conceal and no reason to confuse."

Green Given Jail Term on Trespass, Assault

KINGSTON

Leroy Green, 29, who gave his address as 100 Gage Street at the time of his arrest March 29, was sentenced Thursday by Special City Judge George A. Beck to two terms of three months in the County Jail. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Green was charged with burglary third degree and resisting arrest after police said they caught him in the Gant Manufacturing Co. factory at 97 Cornell Street. He was permitted to plead to reduced charges of criminal trespass in the second degree and third degree assault.

On the morning of March 29, Patrolmen Junious Harris and Douglas Longto investigated a reported break-in at the shirt factory. They said they found the building had been entered through a rear window that had been forced open.

Inside, the patrolmen said they found Green near a back door. They also accused the man of attempting to steal eight cartons containing men's shirts from the factory where he was employed. The police ordered Green to put his hands over his head, but instead the intruder clenched his fists and lunged at the officers and tried to kick them.

Harris sustained bruises of the hands as he and Longto subdued the man and took him to police headquarters.

Film Scheduled

"America's Youth," termed "one of the most important films released in recent years," will be presented Monday, May 19, downstairs in the Knights of Columbus building, Broadway, Kingston, after the K of C meeting. This picture was shown to a capacity crowd of more than 300 people last year at the VFW hall. It has been called a "shocker" in that the film shows today's problem as they are, including the narcotics and the fifth and sex barrage that are pouring forth upon young people. "America's Youth" has been highly recommended for youngsters and adults who care about the future.

Dates and artists for the Poughkeepsie concerts are: Winner of this year's Young Artist Competition, cellist James Kreger will appear on December 7 in performances of Music from

On February 8, 1970, Pianist Lili Kraus will play

Gordon Bush Organ Recital At Old Dutch Received Well

Gordon Bush, young concert organist, has set a sparkling jewel in the diadem of unusually fine musical programs and concerts being presented in the Kingston area this spring. Bush, who served as organist and choir master at the Old Dutch Church and Temple Emanuel several years ago, returned Tuesday evening, May 13, to offer a recital at Old Dutch Church in honor of the church's 310th anniversary year.

Extremely talented, the young organist has developed perfection of technique to blend with his imaginative approach to registrations until today he is bordering the exclusive circle of organ masters. He is an artist who can envelop and lead his audience into musical experiences as he translates the moods of the compositions with great quantities of sounds as in the modern day compositions or the intricate contrapuntal writings of Buxtehude and Bach.

Perhaps the favorite in Tuesday's recital was the Liszt Prelude and Fugue on BACH, which caught up the audience in enormous musical responses to the virtuosity of the composition as well as the interpretation and playing of the organist.

Bush's technique is clean cut. Mention must be made of his pedal work. Playing pedal passages alone as solo or independently with the hands is evidence of much preparation and skill.

The program was balanced starting with Toccata, Op. 59 by Max Reger. This was followed by Wer Nur Den Lieben Gott Lasst Walten (BWV 642) by Bach; Prelude, Fugue and Chaconne, Buxtehude; and Bach's Prelude and Fugue in A Minor (BWV 543).

After a short intermission the modern day composers were represented by Sonata II by Paul Hindemith; Prelude from Suite Op. 70, Paul Creston; and Scherzo-Cats by Jean Langlais. The Liszt Prelude and Fugue concluded the recital. As an encore to the applause of the audience, the organist chose a parody on the hymn tune, Beulah Land, called Prayer of Confidence.

A reception for the artist was held in Bethany Hall. Hosts for the evening were members of the church's Motet Choir, many of whom sang under Mr. Bush's direction. (Reviewed by Caroline Seitz)

'Classicale' Will Be Presented on Sunday

The Little Theatre on the Green in Woodstock will be the setting for a bright spring offering of classical music, sponsored by the Junior Board of Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, on Sunday at 3 p.m. The "Classicale" will feature fresh young talent from this area.

Performers and their selections include Bob Ennis and Pam Finger, accompanied by Sue Lansperry, presenting Romberg's "Road of Paradise;" Ed and Sue Melander, a Handel work; Beth Askue, a Chopin Nocturne; Gioia Marchetti, "Impromptu" by Howard Hansen; James Nino-miya, Mozart Horn Concerto No. 3 in B flat major; Joanne Brudniak, Rhapsody No. 3 by Dohnanyi; Eric Berger, a Bach selection; and Sue Lansperry, accompanied by Bob Ennis, "Lasciatini" by Moure. Tickets at a nominal price may be purchased from Junior Board members or will be available at the door.

Elizabeth Ann, to Lieutenant Melville Henry Lyman, USN, on Saturday, May 10. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville H. Lyman Jr., Ledgewood, N. J. The wedding took place at the Riverside Memorial Church, New York City.

Officiating clergy were Dr. James A. Farmer Jr., of the Riverside Church, and Dr. Roger Boraas, former chaplain of Upsala College, the bride's alma mater. He is currently on the faculty as a professor of Religion and Philosophy.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza edged in re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. The headpiece was a medieval cap and veil, also edged in Alencon lace and pearls. She carried a nosegay of white roses, baby's breath, and ivy.

Mrs. Lyman is a 1968 graduate of Upsala College, East Orange, N. J., where she received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Pre-Law English.

After graduation she was associated with the Professional Children's School of New York as the assistant to the director. She is now with the Juilliard School of Music in the Dance Division.

Lt. Lyman is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, class of 1964. He has also completed programs of study at the U.S. Naval Submarine School and Prototype. He is serving in the U.S. nuclear submarine Nautilus as the main propulsion officer. The couple plan to reside in Ledyard, Conn.

Choirs, Soloists Are Named For Bach's 'St. John Passion'

More than 100 voices including a number of professional soloists and the combined choirs of State University College, New Paltz, and Rondout Valley High School are prepared for two major performances of Bach's "St. John Passion" to be given tonight and Sunday at 8:30

Miss Rees has sung in numerous cities in the East, and in New York City where she resides. She has appeared in recitals at Carnegie Recital Hall, Lincoln Center Library, and Columbia University. She will be touring this summer with the Gregg Smith Singers and the Smithsonian Singers.

Miss Hardgrave has her master's degree in music from New England Conservatory where she was a member of the Opera Department. She studied opera with Thomas Philipps and Boris Goldovsky and is now a member of the music faculty at New Paltz.

Newly-set tomato plants are apt to fall victim to birds, beetles and cutworms. Here's a quick way to foil these pests. When you set out tomato plants, place a tin can around each, setting bottom into the ground. Let the tomato grow up thru the top. The can keeps birds out and prevents cut worms from gnawing off the base. Card-board milk cartons are equally as useful in thwarting the birds and cutworms. Just cut the top off and slip plant inside. Make sure the bottom of the container is in the ground an inch or so, since the cut worm lives in the soil (under rocks). The can or container is useful in keeping rabbits and other rodents away. Fleabeetles often cause tiny holes in the leaves. You can prevent this by dusting the foliage with lime, or an all-purpose garden dust. Wood ashes spread around the base of the tomato plant will discourage snails. The can or carton idea is ideal for keeping out snails, also.

GROWING MELONS: If you happen to live in an area where frosts come early, you can still grow melons if you use early varieties, and if you use a plastic mulch to heat the soil. Another thing you should do is destroy the mosaic-carrying weed hosts such as wild cucumber, catnip, pokeberry, ground cherry, plantain, to name a few. Also, it's a good idea to keep the melon patch away from such flowers as petunia, gladiolus, phlox and hollyhock. Always plant fusarium-resistant varieties such as Delicious or Iroquois. These varieties grow in soils infected with fusarium wilt. Avoid deep cultivation as the melon root is very shallow. A good spray consists of using Sevin, or Malathion to check aphids and other pests. FREE: Send me a self-

BANISH MEXICAN BAMBOO: This is a handsome and aggressive pest that's difficult to cope with. Here are a few tricks used by our readers for coping with it:

Try to keep it mowed down, whenever possible. Do not plow it up or drag it over as this spreads the pest. Place a piece of black tarpaper over the plants, after you cut them down. Shutting out light starves them. Try to locate a weedkiller

Call a Professional For Roots in Pipes

Big, healthy trees are nice to have around your home, not only because of the natural beauty they lend to the landscape but also because they help to prevent soil erosion. However, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out, they can create a real problem when their thirsty roots get into your underground pipe.

out life-giving moisture. If there's a leak or a break in your underground pipe, they'll find it. Then, before you know it, your pipe becomes clogged, requiring corrective measures. The most effective way of dealing with the problem calls for the tools and services of a plumbing contractor. He'll use a special flexible auger that can be reeled into the pipeline, cutting away growth. This definitely is not a job for an amateur.

since improper use of the auger can break the pipe and worsen your problem. Special root solvents also can be flushed through the line to clear it.

These corrective measures are only temporary, however, since the thirsty roots soon will find their way back into the pipe. The only sure way to avoid a root problem is to make certain the pipe is a top-quality, water-tight material. Strong as tree roots are, they can't break into good-quality pipe. When it comes to your pipeline, quality doesn't cost, it pays!

OHAYO HILLS WOODSTOCK, N. Y. is a way to live - - -

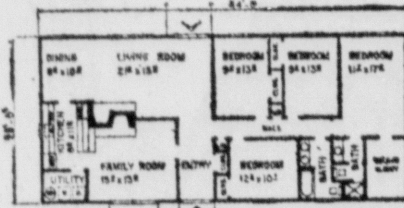

The Panorama

One of the problems with change of location is change of environment, people and things. Of course, these changes are also among the prime motivations for changing in the first place.

If you understand Woodstock, you know what we mean.

Long known as the Art Center of the East, Woodstock lies just west of Kingston, in the foothills of the Catskill Mountains. Art schools, galleries and studios grace its village square, only a short distance from the acclaimed Woodstock Playhouse. Its quiet and picturesque charm, its interesting people, places and things are why so many have made this change for the better life.

OHAYO HILLS has been planned and is being developed to capture this mood. Each home is custom designed to the natural setting of its individual lot. We have slopes, rocks (some boulders) and a great many trees. We also have a great many ideas.

The Panorama is an original Weyerhaeuser design. Contemporary styling, adapted to the lot and texture coordinated, it also features:

- Four large bedrooms, and family room
- A full custom designed island kitchen with Corning cook top, self cleaning oven and Thermador dishwasher
- Twin outdoor deck patios
- Modern electric heat
- Full wall-to-wall carpeting
- Twin compartment baths
- Master bedroom "walk around" closet

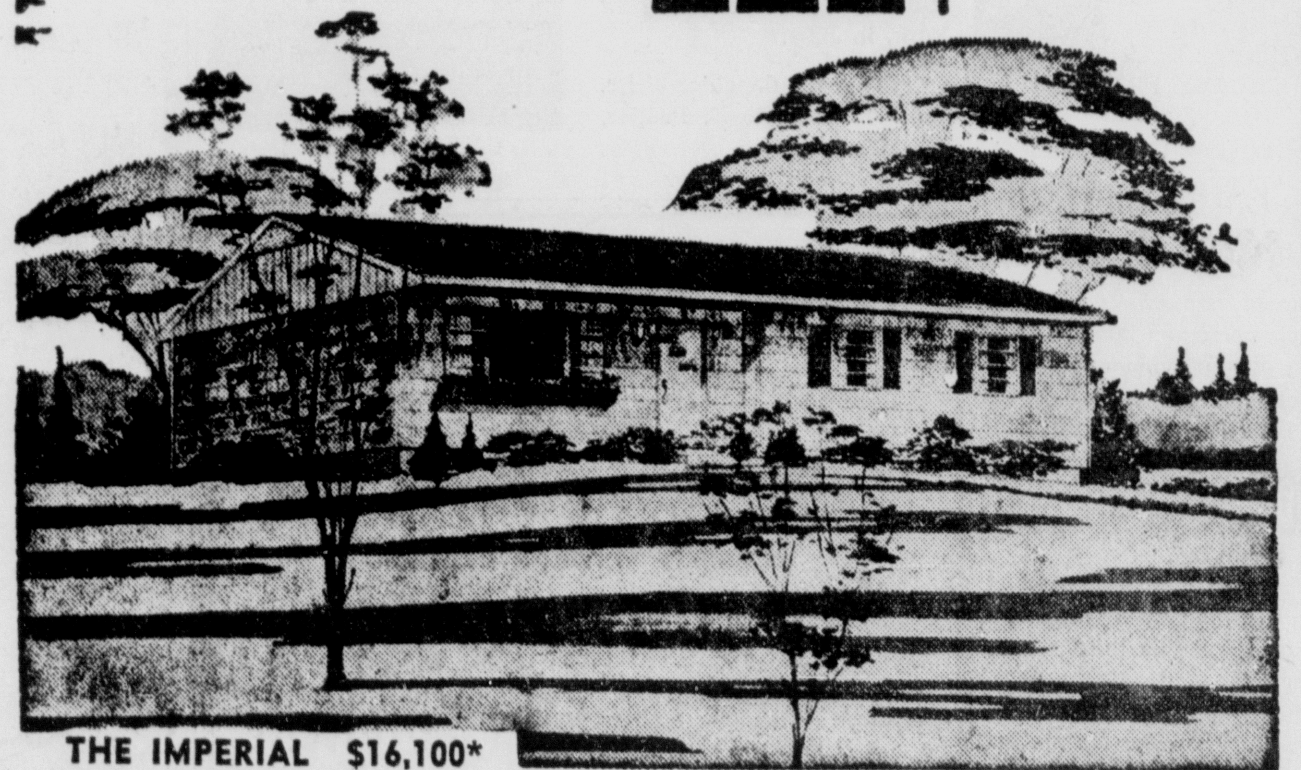

OHAYO HILLS will be open for your inspection on Saturday and Sunday, May 17th and 18th from noon till dusk. During the week by appointment. Directions to Model: Route 375 to Mill Stream Road, turn left to Old Wagon Road, follow to Bluestone Road, 2nd house on left.

Time to Repair Outdoor Furniture

By MR. FIX

Getting outdoor furniture in shape for use is a good spring-time job. Having it cleaned, repaired and in usable condition will save time for pleasure later on.

Cleaning, tightening and adjusting are about all most of it will need. If repairs are required, the job is simple and the materials readily available.

Examine each piece of furniture separately as you remove it from storage. Wipe away dust, wash if necessary. Mild detergent and water will do for most wood and plastic furniture. Aluminum furniture, in addition to being dirty, also may be pitted. Using steel wool will make it bright and new-looking again.

While you are cleaning each item check it for loose parts, for wobbling, for unsteadiness. Joints held together with bolts or screws should be tightened. Replace the bolts and screws if they have become rusted, stripped or damaged. Make certain the ones you use are rust-proof. If any are hard to tighten, try a little penetrating oil to work them free.

Lightly oil all joints and moving parts after first making certain that all dirt is removed. Torn fabric is easier than ever to repair. Replacement material is available in ready-made kits for most furniture. If you can't find an exact match you can get the same kind of material and cut new pieces, using the old for a pattern.

Webbing also is available, usually in rolls. You cut off what you need. Fastening to wood is done with tacks or staples. Use sheet metal screws for metal frames. In the latter case use washers under the heads, or screws with large flat heads to avoid tearing the fabric.

Fabric cushions can fade in time but special spray coatings can be had that will restore their looks in a jiffy. You can even change the color if you want to.

Sometimes cleaning furniture is not enough. Some refinishing is necessary. Metal furniture that has rusted must be cleaned down to the bare metal where ever these spots occur. Use a wire brush, then sand. Prime need painting but you can save yourself that job of rubbing out pitted spots next year by wax-paste waxing it this year. Get the metal (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Wood furniture should be sanded wherever the old finish has become worn or is flaking. Get down to the wood, then prime with a good undercoat and finish with outdoor enamel.

Natural-finish furniture should be varnished with a good grade of spar or other outdoor varnish. Redwood, theoretically impervious to weather, should also be refinished occasionally with redwood sealer. This keeps stains from soaking in and restores the redwood color as well.

Be certain, with wood furniture, that legs or any other part that touches the ground get extra coats of sealer. Aluminum furniture doesn't

How to Save Water

Most of us associate the importance of conserving water with hot weather. That's because shortages and municipal restrictions on the use of water occur mainly during summer months.

However, water conservation should be a year-long affair. Wasting water is just pouring money down the drain. These tips for saving water come from the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau:

1. Make sure there are no leaky faucets. A 1/16th-inch leak wastes 3,000 gallons a month. If your faucet is old, replace it. A modern one enables you to get the temperature you want almost at a touch of the controls, without wasting water to arrive at the desired temperature.

2. Aerators on your faucets will introduce millions of air bubbles into the water. You use

Building Set

BELTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — The Secret Service is building a Hollywood-type set to help train its agents. The scene looks not unlike the place in Dallas where John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The set, which will be used for motorcade training, features false-fronted buildings, a curving roadway and an overpass—an eerie re-creation of Dealey Plaza, where Kennedy fell victim to a sniper.

Birds Replace Buffalo

CAPE VINCENT, N. Y. (AP) — The land that failed for the buffalo looks fine for waterfowl, partridge and pheasants.

The state has acquired 2,050 acres as a habitat for waterfowl and other birds under game management near this village at the juncture of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

les water because it suds up faster and rinses off easier.

3. A circulating pipe loop installed between your water heater and individual fixtures will give you hot water immediately instead of having to run it awhile.

4. Old-fashioned showerheads use a great deal of water. The newer ones not only save water, they increase your enjoyment of a shower because you can regulate the spray from fine, needle and coarse through full-flow. Automatic temperature controls enable you to preset the temperature you want before turning on the water—thereby saving all the water that usually goes down the drain while you're attempting to get the desired temperature.

5. Get into the habit of turning off the water while doing dishes, washing vegetables, shaving, etc. except when you're actually using it. Some authorities claim about 50 per cent of the water in a municipal system is wasted because people turn on the water, then let it run while performing their chores. Wasting water is just a bad habit. Saving it is a good habit to acquire.

Some Family Spats Among White House Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, who got along together pretty well before winning the White House, are having some family spats around the Senate.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has assailed "so called Republicans," unidentified but obviously including Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, for criticizing President Nixon's Vietnam war policy.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has rebuked Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York for calling him an obstructionist.

Goodell aides say they think Dirksen retaliated by refusing to sign a telegram of support for New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, who is running for re-election. "Not so, period," said a Dirksen spokesman.

And Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina is angry with "certain liberal senators" five of them fellow Republicans, for asking Nixon to send a federal mediator to Charleston, S.C., to arbitrate a dispute between the city and striking hospital workers.

Goldwater, who had some disunity problems as the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, lodged his intramural complaint in a Waukegan, Ill., speech Thursday.

"I'm afraid that the greatest critics, or at least the loudest critics, of what Mr. Nixon is attempting to do in Paris and in other areas are members of his own party," the Arizona conservative said.

While his speech named no one, Goldwater complained specifically about Republicans who have accused Nixon of following the policies of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Javits, who made such a charge a week ago but praised Nixon's Wednesday night address on Vietnam, said he would have no comment.

Dirksen's retort to Goodell came Tuesday at a closed meeting of Republican senators. Dirksen said he wasn't angry.

Goodell had said in Toronto on May 6 that Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, was obstructionist in his opposition to some Nixon choices for federal jobs.

Dirksen defended his opposition to the appointments as being well grounded.

Goodell, meanwhile, was promoting a Republican endorsement for Lindsay.

Twenty-four Republicans joined in signing a statement praising the GOP mayor who faces a conservative challenge for renomination.

Dirksen was not among the signers.

"They called here I don't know how many times, and he said he was considering it," a Dirksen spokesman said. "But he never agreed to do it and he didn't do it."

Three other senators originally were listed as signers of the statement, but were dropped before it was made public.

A spokesman for Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma said an administrative mistake was responsible for the temporary inclusion of his name.

Plattekill to Advise State Of Route 44-55 Hazard

Plattekill Town Board Wednesday night instructed the Town Clerk to send a letter to the State Department of Transportation advising them of a "traffic hazard" on Route 44/55 in front of the Clinton-dale Firehouse.

Supervisor George Sisti Jr. said that because of the hazardous condition, fire equipment and other vehicles entering the highway could not be seen by on-coming cars.

The resolution, introduced by Sisti, requested that the Department of Transportation install some type of blinker and warning system to "alleviate a serious condition that could cause loss of life or limb."

The board also passed a resolution calling for improvements of the town's lighting district. Street lighting additions were approved for the Unionville Extension at the Court House, Route 32 at the New Hurley intersection, and on Unionville Road west of the firehouse.

In other action, the board appointed Gene Bilbao and John Pliego as co-directors for the summer recreation program, which includes a comprehensive program of swimming instruction. Bilbao is the coach for the athletic program of the Wallkill Central School District and Pliego is coach for the Pine Bush Central School District.

Board Approves Action of Hoover

KINGSTON

A resolution has been unanimously approved by the Kingston Board of Education supporting Supt. of Schools Wendell W. Hoover in his suspension of Gary Lee Monger, 22-year-old physical education instructor at the Brigham School.

The suspension will continue until a court decision is reported in a case pending in East Stroudsburg, Pa. Meanwhile, Monger will receive no pay from the school district.

Monger, whose address was listed as RD 1, Pine Grove, Pa., and the Colonial Arms Apartment in New Paltz, was arrested by detectives on Friday, May 9 on a warrant charging him with rape and assault with intent to ravish. A 20-year-old East Stroudsburg woman was involved.

Dr. Hoover had suspended the instructor immediately after learning of his arrest. Monger waived extradition and was turned over to Pennsylvania authorities for court appearance.

Man Goes Berserk, Kills Two Before Shooting Self to Death

By RICHARD CUNNINGHAM

TWINBURG, Ohio (UPI)—An employee of an auto company plant ran berserk through a production line Thursday night, firing two automatic pistols for an hour and killing two of his coworkers before shooting himself to death.

Police said Robert Kenneth Smith, 32, a production inspector, also wounded 10 fellow workers, four of them critically, before training the .22 caliber automatic pistols on himself.

Police found the pistols and "several hundred rounds" of ammunition near Smith's body. There was no immediate indication what caused the shooting spree, although police said the Chrysler Corp. stamping plant where he worked had been garnishing his wages.

Police earlier reported five persons were killed, but Police Chief Glenn Osborne said they "had the wrong information at first."

Police said Smith, 31, of Morgadore, Ohio, arrived late for work and suddenly began running through the production line, firing the automatic pistols. About 1,800 employees were working at the plant when the shooting broke out.

Sam J. Zuccherro, 57, of Alliance, Ohio, was sitting in the plant lunchroom when a bullet struck and killed him. Another employee, identified as Vincent Bell, also was killed in the blaze of gunfire.

Hospital spokesmen said four of the 10 injured workers were in critical condition.

Smith had been identified by police as a plant guard, but a spokesman for Chrysler Corp. said authorities had misunderstood the term "inspector."

"The plant was a real mess, everything was confused and we had the wrong report at first," Osborne said.

Sgt. Donald Prange of the Twinsburg Police Department said about 75 policemen were called to the scene about 11:30 p.m.

Employees at the plant told Prange the shooting lasted about one hour.

Smith had been scheduled to report to work on the second shift, at 3 p.m., but did not show up. He entered the plant with the third shift at 11 p.m.

Prange said.

Hope for Fall Start

$870,000 'Y' Building Fund

KINGSTON — The YMCA Building Committee, Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, chairman, today issued the following statement pertaining to the proposed new YMCA for Kingston and Ulster County:

The YMCA Building Fund Campaign raised $870,000. Since last July, the committee has been working with the architect and reviewing plans for the new construction.

Eye Fall Construction

Harry Halverson Associates, Inc. was selected as the architect for the building, and plans have progressed to the point where the YMCA will invite bids in the early summer. The committee hopes to begin construction on the first unit by fall.

The first unit, which will be the new physical building, will be constructed without the new gymnasium, but will contain all other physical facilities including the new swimming pool. A connecting corridor will also be constructed between the new unit and the existing gyms.

The facilities included in the new building will be: a 37x75 foot swimming pool with colorful translucent panels to insure adequate lighting; three locker room complexes, one for boys, one for women and girls, one for high school and post-high school young men. These facilities are on the ground floor. The first floor will contain a spectator gallery for the swimming pool and a complete dual-use health club complex for both men and women. The second floor will include two four-wall handball courts, a body-building room, an exercise room, storage space for gymnastic equipment and office space for the physical director.

The gymnasium, which comprises the balance of the second floor, will be completed when the needed funds are available.

Robert Stubbs, executive director of the YMCA, commented on the outstanding job that the building committee has done on the fund drive. "This drive was one of the most successful drives ever conducted in the Kingston and Ulster County area, and the people who worked so hard for this success should be commended."

A Cautious Appraisal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Council on Drug Addiction issued a cautious appraisal Thursday of the methadone program for treating addicts, saying it "offers a promising approach to some addicts and nothing more."

"The methadone maintenance program," the council said, "deserves continued support," but it must not be seen as a panacea and it must continue to be regarded as in the research stage.

Under the program, heroin addicts are given maintenance doses of methadone, a synthetic drug, in a controlled hospital environment for six weeks, then released as outpatients who continue taking the drug.

Premature Reports

Reports that the program has been a success are premature, the council said in a study submitted to the State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission, which recently began its own experiments in the field.

The council noted that the addicts who undergo the program average about 32 years old, about five years older than the average age of a New York City addict. They are volunteers and undergo tests to determine selection.

"It is entirely legitimate to ask whether these older, well-motivated and selected individuals might not do just as well if they were subject to all facets of the program except methadone," the council said.

The program includes intensive counseling, aid in obtaining welfare, vocational training opportunities and free legal services.

"The evidence is clear," the council said, "that for some individuals methadone has been highly beneficial."

It warned, however, against widespread use of the drug. Many addicts might sell their allotment and the "drug would assume a legitimacy that would entice young persons, not fully aware it is a powerfully addicting agent, into trying it," the council said.

In addition, several persons on methadone have turned to stimulants and excessive use of alcohol.

Several Advantages

The council noted several advantages to the program. The patient remains addicted but the substitute drug prevents him from getting "high" on heroin. The drug can be taken orally, requires use only once a day and is inexpensive.

The report "concentrated" on a program at the Morris Bernstein Institute in New York City, where 707 persons were treated over a five-year period. Of the group, 548 remained in the program and more than two-thirds of them are employed or attending school.

The report also covered several other methadone programs in New York City, other states and other nations.

Double Generation Gap Exists, Claims Rusk in West Point Talk

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The renewed trend toward isolationism in the United States, former Secretary of State Dean Rusk believes, may be the result of the passage of time since World War II and a double generation gap.

Rusk, speaking at West Point Thursday night, said the passage of time and the rush of events since World War II may have led to "a double generation gap — one involving the old, the other the young."

"Many older persons have forgotten the blood that was shed because there were no collective measures to prevent the great struggle," Rusk said. "And, at the same time, half of our people are too young to have had a chance to remember the agony of the event which prompted somber conclusions in those years."

Rusk called for "a genuine and sustained dialogue both within and between the generations — a dialogue infused with mutual respect."

Rusk's remarks came during a dinner at which the Association of Graduates of the U.S. Military Academy presented him with the 12th Sylvanus Thayer award. The award, named in honor of the academy's fifth superintendent, is given annually to an outstanding citizen whose services and accomplishments in the national interest exemplify personal devotion to the ideals expressed in the West Point motto: "Duty, Honor, Country."

Previous award winners include John Foster Dulles, Dwight Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur and Francis Cardinal Spellman.

Rusk was also cited for his work as president of the Rockefeller Foundation prior to joining the administrations of presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

"In thinking about where we stand with national security policy today, I am concerned with signs that the hard-won lessons of the past are being forgotten," he said in his address. "Change is the law of life and adjustment of policy to new circumstances is an elementary requirement — but to scrap policies without putting something better in their place is the path of folly."

"Let our present discourse be informed by the greater realization that there will be no lessons to be drawn from World War II — the thousands of megatons now held in frail human hands will see to that," Rusk said.

Allen, Aaron and McNally Top Names of the Day

(Combined UPI-AP) ... It's no secret that Richie Allen wants to leave Philadelphia, but one of his mighty home runs may beat him to it.

Allen, favorite target of the Philadelphia boo-birds, sent another baseball into orbit Thursday night. His fifth home run of the season sailed against a sign atop the center field roof at Connie Mack Stadium, 410 feet from the plate and 85 feet high.

The eighth-inning shot was only the icing on the cake in the Phillies' 7-0 triumph over the Cincinnati but it made manager Bob Skinner's post-game ham-burger taste "like sirloin steak" after six consecutive defeats.

In the only other National League action, Atlanta eked both times. In addition, second of second, out a 6-5 victory over the New York Mets in an afternoon ejected for protesting a stolen base call.

The 516th and 517th homers of his career and moved into eighth place in career total bases, passing Lou Gehrig.

The Phillies' evening ended to believe anything worse could have happened. They happen loaded the bases in the first Deron Johnson got the Phils in the second with a run-inning with none out and again started in the third with a run in the second with one away in scoring single after Allen had after six consecutive defeats.

The second, but Cincinnati's stroked the first of three singles in the fifth. Allen singled for three runs against Cecil Upshaw and threatened to pull it out in the ninth.

But with the bases loaded and one out, Upshaw got Ken Boswell to hit into a force at the shot off rookie Joe Noriega in the eighth.

Rick Wise hurled the shut-out, a five-hitter.

Aaron Slams Two

The Braves, thanks to Aaron's wallop and Pat Jarvis' pitching, held a 6-2 lead going into the eighth. But the Mets rallied for three runs against Cecil Upshaw and threatened to pull it out in the ninth.

But with the bases loaded and one out, Upshaw got Ken Boswell to hit into a force at the plate and second baseman Felix Millan raced into short right field to snag Cleon Jones' soft liner.

McNally Stars

In the American League, Dave McNally showed why he is now one of baseball's premier left-handers, even though his career nearly ended two years ago with a sore arm.

Thursday night, McNally pitched 8 1/3 innings of no-hit ball and wound up allowing only one hit—Cesar Tovar's line single over shortstop—in hurling the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

McNally, one of the pitching stars in Baltimore's four-game sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1966 World Series, sustained an arm injury in the following season. His record dipped from 11-6 in 1966 to 7-7 and he spent more than three weeks on the disabled list.

After a number of physicians failed to provide a remedy for his ailing arm, veteran trainer Eddie Weidner suggested a stretching machine. It proved to be the answer as McNally rebounded with a 22-10 mark last season to win American League Comeback Player of the Year honors.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit edged Chicago, 2-1, in ten innings and Kansas City downed Cleveland, 5-2.

Onteora Tops Dukes In UCAL Baseball

BOICEVILLE lashed out a bases-loaded triple, capping a three-run outburst in the bottom of the fourth. Mellert had slugged a homer on Tuesday against Walkill.

John Stelcen added some sock to the Onteora attack, tripling in Bob Leyes with the first run of the tilt. Stelcen came all the way around to score, but was credited with a triple, as the second baseman committed an error for the Dukes.

Both Stelcen and Mellert had 3 RBIs for the winners, while Leyes crossed the plate three times. Jim Smith doubled and scored twice for the Indians.

Ed Mercer, who had joined Mellert in the home-run derby on Tuesday, concentrated on his pitching duties and did a fine job, limiting the losers to four hits and one run. Rich Gerentine took the loss.

Vinnie Martuscello had two hits, including a double, for the Dukes. The losers were fresh off a big win over league-leading New Paltz on Tuesday.

Shaughnessy Is Dead at Age 86

MONTREAL (AP) — Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, an all-around athlete at Notre Dame, football coach and noted baseball executive who originated the playoff system that bears his name, died Thursday in a Montreal hospital. He was 86.

Although he was an outstanding athlete and sports executive in the U. S. and Canada, president of baseball's International League from 1936 until his retirement in 1960, he was best known in recent years for devising the Shaughnessy Playoff.

It proved to be the salvation of the minor leagues and was eventually copied by pro leagues in most sports. He originated it in 1933.

In 1957 he predicted accurately that "in the not-too-distant future" baseball's two major leagues would expand into six team divisions with a playoff to determine the World Series representatives.

The tall, silvery-haired native of Amboy, Ill., who made his home in Montreal, was stricken Tuesday by a massive aneurysm — an abnormal enlargement of an artery — near his heart and was taken to Montreal General Hospital.

Coach Dave Frank was quite gratified with the victory saying, "This is one of the best efforts of the year for my boys."

The winners iced the tilt early with a 4-run outburst in the top of the second inning and added 3 more in the fourth over the hapless Monticello nine. Scoring runs in the third, sixth and seventh stanzas, the visitors came home on Hornbeck's strong arm.

Hurler Hornbeck struck out 14 of the opposition, while issuing no free passes. Bruce also helped his own cause at the plate, going 2-for-4, with 3 ribbys. Bob Heins took the loss for the Monties.

Dave Bagliebter had a big day with the bat for Ellenville, as he collected 4-for-5 and 2 RBIs. Doubt Maier went 3-for-3, scoring four times, and blasting a double and a triple. Steve Hayden had 2 doubles and Jergen Wendt added 2 hits, including a triple.

Kingston Checks Port

By MORT LAFFIN

KEN Gilligan picked up his second straight win the DUSO League and fourth overall, limiting Port Jervis High School to 2 unearned runs and four singles, as Kingston picked up its second win in the League.

5-2, Thursday, at Dietz Stadium. In other DUSO action, Newburgh beat Middletown 3-0.

The Maroons are now 2-1 in the League and 4-5 overall. Kingston's next game is with Middletown, at the Middies field on Monday.

Ken Williams tallied the first run for the winners in the bottom of the first stanza, as he led off with a walk, stole second and went to third on the throw. Tony Darwak then slapped a single to score him from third. John Carter kept the ball rolling, rather flying in the bottom of the second as he doubled, went to third on an infield out and dented the plate on Monday.

Gilligan's infield hit, Rich Sorenson scored on Greg Rios' single, after he had tripled in the third. Bill Brady walked, opening the fourth and moved up on a sac-rifice by Gilligan. Williams hit a sizzler to Brady at third, singled him to third, where he he whirled and threw to Paul Watzka, making the pivot at the home half of the sixth. Brady pill to Sorenson, completing the "round-the-horn" double play to end the game.

Port Jervis scored an unearned run in the fourth and had a threat mounting in the top of the seventh. However, with one run in and men on base, Prisco singled him to third, where he he whirled and threw to Paul Watzka, making the pivot at the home half of the sixth. Brady pill to Sorenson, completing the "round-the-horn" double play to end the game.

Henry Carr Breaks Even With the Nags

Opening Night Turnout Sets Mighty M Record

MONTICELLO
Monticello Raceway launched its 12th season of harness racing in record fashion Thursday night, as 12,472 fans thronged the beautifully refurbished layout to set new marks for attendance, handle and the daily double.

Helping to kick off the 1969 racing program was a man-against-horse duel between Henry Carr, who won two Gold Medals in the 1964 Olympics, and Nevele Holiday, a nine-year-old pacing gelding with a lifetime record of 1:59.1.

Carr, former New York Giants defensive back who now plays for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, raced 440 yards compared to Holiday's 7/16ths of a mile and unlike previous man-against-horse trials, man was the loser this time.

Nevele Holiday, despite the handicap, came on to win by more than 10 yards.

Wins in Sprint
Carr came back following the first race to beat Billy Primrose, a pacer driven by Stanley Dancer, in a head-to-head 100-yard dash from a standing start. Carr won easily by 12 yards. He was given a 10-yard advantage.

The first night crowd of 12,472 well exceeded the previous high of 8,497 set May 30, 1963. And, in addition, to erasing the old opening night handle record of $419,527 set that same night, the crowd also shattered the track's daily double pool record. A total of $93,412 was wagered on the DD, surpassing the old mark of $89,996 set on Sept. 14, 1968.

The opening event, a mile trot, was won by Shadydale Meg, a 6-year-old mare driven by Robert Doherty. Meg returned $6.00, $4.00 and $3.40 to the bettors. Time for the event was a respectable 2:09.1.

The second race, a mile pace was taken in 2:08.1 by 4-year-old Volo Knight with John Edmunds in the sulky, paying $8.40, 3.80 and 3.20. The winning combination of 3 and 1 resulted in an $18.40 daily double.

Mizell's Mickey Wins
Mizell's Mickey scored an easy four-length win over Francis T. Leary in the $7,500 inaugural feature, the first division of the Can-Am series for three-year-olds.

Mizelle, a brown colt piloted by his trainer, veteran driver William Haughton, outdistanced the field of nine youngsters by a comfortable four lengths to run the mile in 2:03.3. He wore the number 1-A and was coupled with Haughton's second entry, Nardin's Grand Slam, driven by Harold Dancer Jr.

Haughton piloted Mizell's Mickey over most of the fast-rated track three horses behind the leader, Francis T. Leary, until the field reached the paddock turn. Haughton then made his move and left the other contenders far behind.

Francis T. Leary, driven by Harold Story made a game effort to make up the distance, but trailed badly to come in second. Third horse to cross the wire was Dandy Dancer, driven by George Sholtz.

Former U. S. great Jesse Owens fired the gun to start the Carr-Nevele Holiday duel.

Carr was a bit disappointed, but Leon Greenberg, president and general manager of the Mighty M, was surprised. "I'm overwhelmed. I never thought it would be that close," Greenberg said.

Owens, who won four Gold Medals for the U. S. in 1936 Olympics at Berlin, felt a bit of disappointment, too. "I should have rolled the track down along the rail before they raced," Owens said. "I think that slowed down Henry quite a bit."

Greenberg, the youthful looking major domo at the Sullivan county track, was enthusiastic about the first night turnout.

"I'm overwhelmed," he said. "I never thought we'd do this good."

"It's crazy," Greenberg added. "When you stop and think that our previous opening night attendance record was set on a holiday (Memorial Day, 1963) and that there isn't a tourist in the area yet, it becomes more amazing."

Greenberg admitted that he has refiled the track's application for instituting the Big E form of wagering. Chances are believed good that the new betting system would gain approval of the State Harness Racing Commission in the next few days.

Combination of Perfectas
The "Big E" is a combination of two perfectas—or exacts, if you prefer. If you correctly tab the first two finishers in the first half, you exchange your ticket for a 1-2 selection on another race. Payoffs in the $1,000 range have not been uncommon at tracks in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts offering the Big E.

Greenberg's first application to institute the "Big E" at Monticello was rejected by the racing commission pending a further in-depth study of the system.

Fans were pleasantly surprised by the renovated Mighty M. The enclosed grandstand, dropped ceilings, refurbished dining facilities and art gallery located near the daily double windows on the clubhouse level, left fans virtually in awe.

Ready for Preakness

Majestic Prince Sizzles in Drill

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Majestic Prince is ready—jet speed ready—for Saturday's Preakness Stakes, the second leg of the Triple Crown.

Frank McMahon's winner of the Kentucky Derby zoomed a half mile over the Pimlico track Thursday morning in 45 seconds, just a fifth of a second off the world record set by Tam-rin's Jet in a race at Sunland Park in New Mexico earlier this year.

The powerful chestnut ripped off the first quarter in 22.4 and three-eighths in 33.4. He galloped out five-eighths in 58, a fifth of a second lower than the Pimlico record set by Viatint Bull in a race April 28, 1967.

"He is ready as a man can make him," said trainer Johnny Longden, who rode Majestic Prince in the workout and then entered him in the Preakness, where he will meet seven other 3-year-olds, including Rokeby Stable's Arts and Letters, the Derby runner-up.

Top Knight, owned by the estate of Steven B. Wilson, winner of the Flamingo and Florida Derby but a disappointing fifth in the Kentucky Derby, also was entered after blowing out a half mile in 46.2.

The field, in order of post position, and the jockey assignments:

Top Knight, Manuel Ycaza; Elmdorff's Caption Action, Kenny Knapp; Glenn M. Banker's and Nick Collicio's Glad's Flame, Robert Wilson; Claiborne Farm's Jay Ray, Earle Fires; Majestic Prince, Bill Hartack; Arts and Letters, Braulio Baeza; Pelican Stable's Al Hattab, Ray Broussard, and Michael Phipps' Greengrass Greene, George Cusumano.

Temple Coed Found Alive

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Penny Haden, 21, a Temple University coed who became separated from a hiking party Tuesday on the Appalachian Trail, was found Thursday night and was reported in good condition. The searchers said she appeared in good condition despite three days and two nights out in the open. She had a sleeping bag in a pack.

She was one of a group of five hikers from Temple University. On Tuesday morning she set out ahead of the other four to get a head start after she had fallen behind the previous day. The others failed to find her and notified state police who set up a search.

Introducing a Used Car Guarantee

It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys. Fords. Ramblers. VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Revolutionary Bathrooms Introduced

Totally new concepts in bathroom fixtures and design which will make obsolete 95 per cent of today's bathrooms were introduced here this week to area builders, architects, designers and plumbing contractors by American-Standard.

"The new Ultra Bath and Spectra 70 units by American-Standard signal a new era for the bathroom in the American home and will change the plumbing industry," D. R. Meckstroth, general manager, Plumbing and Heating Division of American Standard, said. "The bathroom has finally come of age. It is no longer simply a functional area in the home, but a beautiful retreat for gracious living."

Meckstroth said the Ultra Bath and Spectra 70 fixtures incorporate new comfort, convenience and safety features which in themselves are an invitation to self-indulgence. "These new integrated bathroom centers must be seen to be believed," he said. "Designed primarily for women, they offer the ultimate in personal sanitation, therapy, health and beautification."

a Stan-Sure slip-resistant bottom. The Spectra 70 Bathtub, in the popular 5-foot size, is newly contoured to provide lumbar body support similar to the Ultra/Bath. It also is available in "go-with-everything" Bone, another new soft pastel green color called Bayberry, and five additional colors.

Highlight of the new line of products is the exclusive Ultra/Bath featuring an oval "bathing pool" rather than the conventional size bathtub.

The Ultra/Bath, designed in the new fashion color, Bone, is more than 30 per cent wider than the standard tub. It is contoured to provide the comfort of lumbar support for the bather's back and has a beveled edge for use as a headrest.

It includes a control console with new devices which pre-set the temperature and depth of water in the bathing pool, a whirlpool for physical therapy, a built-in hand spray for rinsing and hair washing, and Stereo "his and hers" shower heads. The Ultra/Bath also has a permanent slip-resistant surface for greater safety, as well as acrylic grab bars for placement on two of the walls surrounding the pool.

Grouped in the Ultra/Bath concept is the Ultra Lavatory of vitreous china with an oversized oval basin and featuring the Ultra Font, a fountain-like water spout which projects a splashless laminar flow of water in a controlled arc.

The Spectra 70 Bath features the Spectra 70 Tri-Wall, consisting of three fiberglass panels fitted around the bathtub.

Pre-built into these panels are such custom features as a storage cabinet for bathing accessories, a fold-down tray for manicuring, reading, and other luxury activities while bathing, a fold-down seat, twin overhead lights, grab bars at convenient levels for safety, and

These new developments are a dramatic climax to seven years of research by American-Standard emphasizing "Ergonomics" — the designing of fixtures to better suit the human body—and exhaustive product testing among customers.

The Ultra/Bath and Spectra 70 Bath incorporate many of the recommendations of the famed 1966 Cornell Report, a $100,000 research project jointly sponsored by American-Standard and the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University. The study concluded that American bathrooms were unscientific, unhygienic, uncomfortable, and relatively unchanged since indoor plumbing was announced 50 years ago.

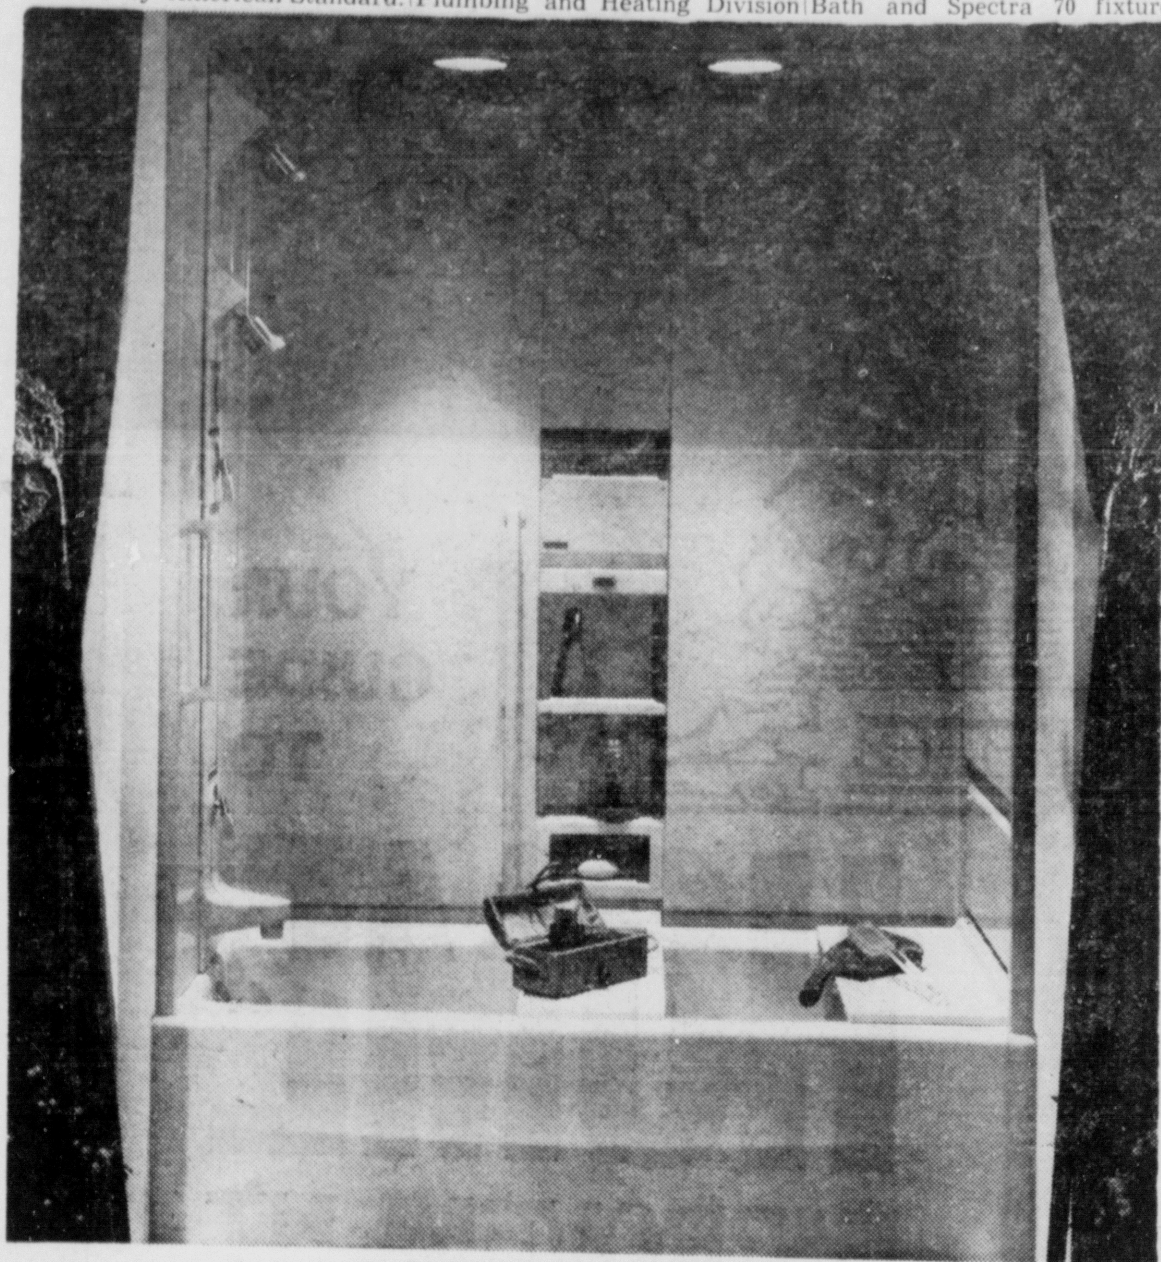

"People are tired of taking what they get in bathrooms," according to Mr. Meckstroth.

"Heretofore, bathroom fixtures were designed for the plumbing industry rather than for the consumer, and we're changing all that. Traditional design has been scrapped so that even today's most 'modern' bathroom fixtures are obsolete."

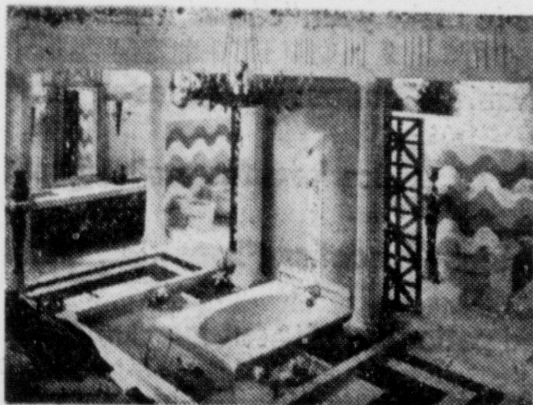

"The American bathroom contains the most permanent furniture of the home. It is the most frequently used room. It should and can be something that is shown first rather than last."

"The bathroom as we have conceived it will be the show-stopper in the home of tomorrow."

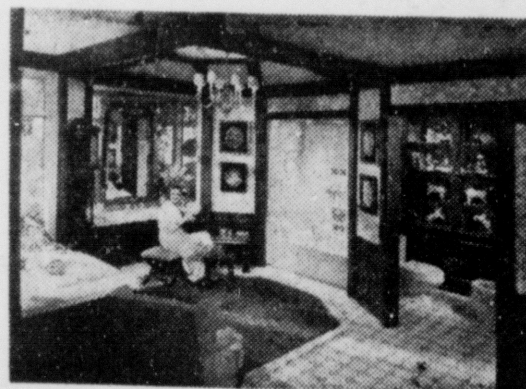

The new products will be available in this area beginning in late April.

THE NEW SPECTRA 70

THE BASIC BEAUTY OF BONE complements a seascape of green to create a fresh, appealing background for the Grecian Ultra/Bath bathing center by American-Standard.

A REGAL ROOM of purple and gold surrounds the American-Standard Spectra 70 bathroom center. A fold-down tray holds reading material. Soaps, shampoo and sponges are stored a short reach away in Spectra 70's Tri-Wall surround.

A totally new concept in bathroom fixtures and design will make obsolete 95 per cent of today's bathrooms, recently introduced by American Standard.

Must be seen to be believed — design primarily for women — they offer the ultimate in personal sanitation, therapy, health, beauty and luxury.

The Ultra/Bath and Spectra 70 fixtures incorporate new comfort, convenience, safety features, in themselves and invitation to self indulgence, featuring an oval bathing pool, 30% wider than the conventional tub — contoured to provide support for the bather's back and a built-in-headrest.

Constant temperature controls, whirlpool for physical therapy, built-in hand spray for rinsing and hair washing, "stereo" shower heads, slip resistant bottoms, Spectra 70 bath features the Spectra 70 Tri-Wall, consisting of 3 fiberglass panels fitted around the bathtub, built in these fold down tray for manicuring, reading, fold down seat overhead lights, grab bars for safety.

Spectra 70 is available in the popular 5 foot size, and in five beautiful pastel colors and we suggest that before you build or remodel you stop by to see these beautiful baths. We will be pleased to send you further information.

Plumbing Has Moved Outdoors

Outdoor living is fast becoming the favorite summer pastime—so much so that many people now eat, relax, entertain and play in their backyards.

All this is causing plumbing to move outdoors the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out.

An entertainment sink with hot and cold running water on the patio is a prime example. It gives kitchen convenience right in the yard.

Sticky fingers can be washed in a jiffy. A glass of water is only an arm's reach away. Dishes and cooking utensils can be washed on the spot. The sink is a big help, too, when it comes time to clean the patio area.

Another major outdoor convenience is a drinking fountain installed at "child level," so youngsters and their friends can all get the drinks of water they want without running in and out of the kitchen.

An infra-red heater removes the chill from the patio in early spring and late fall, extending the season for backyard fun and leisure.

Cutting Flowers

To spur blooming of annuals and perennials, cut terminal clusters of flowers, giving smaller side clusters space to expand.

An Old Oriental Idea For New Homemakers

With so many urban homes being built with tiny, almost postage-stamp size yards, a lot of homemakers may want to borrow a good idea from the Japanese and plant oriental gardens.

Most homes in Japan have extremely limited space, so the Japanese express their reverent love of nature by creating landscapes in miniature compact gardens executed in exquisite detail, and meticulously but inconspicuously maintained. Their gardens are planned to simulate nature while they provide a place for meditating in quiet repose. The oriental garden is an extension of the house in a genuine indoor-outdoor relationship.

These suggestions from the American Association of Nurserymen may help you develop your small yard or a portion of a larger area into an oriental-style retreat from the work-a-day world.

The basic feature of an oriental garden is that it is designed by the grouping of three different shapes: upright, rounded or leaning, and flat or spreading. The groupings can be repeated throughout the garden.

Emphasis is on materials that do not change, such as rocks, evergreens, and soil or pebbles. A few colorful flowers may be included. The trees and shrubs are pruned carefully each year so that they keep their form and size without seeming to change.

Paths or stepping stones lead you around the garden turning here or there to make you pause when there is something special to admire. Water is an important element in a Japanese garden, both for the sight of it and the sound.

Some appropriate plant materials for the oriental garden include bamboo for the vertical or upright shapes, dwarf azaleas for the recumbent ones, and rounded moss or prostrate cotoneaster as the horizontal. The selection is certainly not limited to these, and each homeowner should create his oriental garden with designs of his preference.

How to Finance Home Improvement

With the cost of new homes shooting up like a startled catbird, it is getting tougher and tougher to make the jump from one house to a bigger or better one.

Many homeowners are finding that one good answer to this problem is not to move at all, but to improve and expand the homes they have now. Not only is it apt to be cheaper, but it lets them stay in neighborhoods they've come to like and allows kids to stay in schools that are familiar.

Most home improvements can't be financed right out of the pocket, but banks stand ready and willing to lend the necessary cash. According to the American Bankers Association, here is a brief summary of the six main ways to finance home improvement today.

ONE: Title 1 Loan. A homeowner can borrow up to $5,000 with seven years to repay under this short-term loan insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

Such loans can be used only to finance alterations and repairs that will protect or improve the basic livability or utility of the already existing structure.

The loan may not be used for projects which are not "essential" to a home, such as a tennis court or a greenhouse.

TWO: Bank Home Improvement Loan. A homeowner can borrow up to $3,500, and in some cases more, and take five years to repay, depending on the bank's policy.

Banks make these loans entirely on their own, so they are not subject to FHA regulations. Therefore, the money can be used for improvements considered non-essential under FHA regulations, such as wall-to-wall carpeting and landscaping.

THREE: FHA Long-Term Loan. Under Section 203K of the Federal Housing Act, a homeowner may be able to borrow up to $10,000 for a one-family dwelling, $20,000 for two-family, $30,000 for three-family and $37,500 for four-family, for as long as 20 years.

If the home is less than 10 years old, the loan must be used for major structural changes, such as adding a new wing or room.

FOUR: Open-End Mortgage Loan. Does the home mortgage contain an "openend" provision? If so, it may be possible to obtain money for home improvements by adding the amount borrowed to the original loan.

FIVE: Refinancing Present Mortgage. If the mortgage has no open-end clause, it may be possible to retire the existing mortgage, then get a new one in a larger amount to include money for improvements.

Some states' statutes do not permit refinancing.

SIX: Personal Bank Loan. If home improvement projects are small, consider a personal bank loan.

New Flooring Styles Offer Luxury

MOST PRACTICAL — Aside from their handsome appearance, sheet vinyl floors like this are the most practical for use in home kitchens. Spilled foods wipe right up and liquids won't penetrate the material and hide beneath the surface.

Resilient floors, long recognized for their practicality, are now moving into the world of high fashion.

New production techniques are enabling manufacturers to create an incredible assortment of highly sophisticated stylings in both sheet material and low-cost vinyl-asbestos tile. Some of the new designs, in fact, almost approximate works of art.

Take, for example, Armstrong Cork Company's elegant new Decoresq pattern in Excelon vinyl-asbestos tile. This richly embossed Old World design features an intricate lacing of curves formed into a classic Medallion motif. The design looks as though it had been etched into the vinyl with a craftsman's tool.

Naturalistic effects are also becoming more sophisticated as manufacturers develop new techniques to capture some of the rare beauties of Nature.

What could be more delightful in a kitchen, family room or entrance hall, for example, than a floor design that suggests newly fallen Autumn leaves? This unique visual effect is now offered in a new Sheet Vinyl Corlon design series called "Sherwood," also from Armstrong. Hundreds of leaf-shaped vinyl chips are set into a richly textured background and permanently fused in clear vinyl to produce an unusual abstract interpretation of a forest floor.

For a distinctive "woody" effect, the new Sherwood design comes in a variety of Fall colors including Maple Russet, Hickory Beige, Pecan, and Walnut. For those preferring more of a contemporary look, the leaf design is also offered in Willow Green, Harvest Gold, and Birch White.

The Mediterranean influence continues to be an important factor in floor styling today, as it is in furniture, cabinets, and appliances. There is seemingly no end to the variations which are possible with the popular Spanish Tile design.

One of the newest of the Mediterranean effects is Armstrong's San Miguel Excelon Tile. The styling of this floor is romantically Moresque in character, with graceful embossing lines forming the "grout" around each tile. When the individual 12" x 12" tiles fit together, the seams virtually disappear in the embossing detail, giving the appearance of a continuous, one-piece surface.

It is evident that flooring manufacturers are beginning to place greater emphasis on patterned effects in order to give resilient materials a look of distinction and luxury.

Color Sets Mood, Keyed to Roofing

Virtually every woman wants to change her hair color at least once in her life. But before she does, she spends long hours making the decision and selecting the shade.

Homeowners embarking on a remodeling program can learn a lesson from this.

Color is often left as an "afterthought" in remodeling. Yet it is one of the most important items to be considered.

Color can be used as a tool to create a mood, set a scene, calm or excite the senses. It can "dress up" a drab-looking house, give a home individuality and add status and charm.

Exterior color planning should be keyed to the roof, generally the largest unbroken area. Heavyweight asphalt shingles—those weighing 290 or more pounds per 100 square feet of roof—are finding favor with architects and homeowners because of their extensive color range.

New manufacturing techniques have produced deeper and more varied shades.

Color has dimension—it can make a house appear larger or smaller than it actually is. A light roof makes a squat house look higher; a dark roof makes a too-tall house seem to hug the ground.

If house proportions are good, they can be emphasized with trim color at the roof line and corner posts of the house. If not, trim color should be the same as the siding.

Doors and windows are then accented with color to establish a visual focal point.

Colors that complement or match the roof should be used for siding, brick and trim—for example, brown roofs, sandalwood siding and beige brick; gray roofs, blue siding and red brick.

Heating-Cooling Council Gives Advice to Homeowners

With summer approaching heating contractors are not as busy as they are during the colder months. The National Better Heating-Cooling Council advises that this is a good time to give your heating system a "check-up" to be sure that it is ready for next winter. Because your heating contractor may not be very busy, his price may be lower than usual. Might be a good time to modernize your old boiler or old-fashioned radiators, the Council adds.

A GRACEFUL FACADE

Aluminum Siding Can Bring Enjoyment

If you plan installing aluminum siding on your home, you don't have to wait until the time a paint job would have been due to appreciate the benefits of the fast-growing home improvement product.

While the elimination of periodic repainting for as much as 30 years is one of the main appeals of aluminum siding, one benefit, a cooler home, can be enjoyed this summer.

So reports the Colonial Roofing Co., local Flexalum aluminum siding distributor for Alcan Aluminum Corporation. According to Don Oakley president, the insulation properties of aluminum siding begin paying off almost immediately in upkeep savings and family comfort.

The siding surfaces, he points out, serves as reflective barriers to both heat and cold. In the summer, this means that the rays of the sun are reflected away from the home and the entire home is kept degrees cooler.

In areas where air conditioning is needed for several months of the year, the additional insulation provided by aluminum siding can reduce cooling costs considerably.

Conversely, in areas where heating is a major expense, the ability of aluminum siding to reflect warm air supplied by the heating system back into the home, means that reductions in heating costs can begin this fall.

But North or South, the greater comfort in both winter or summer supplied by aluminum siding is augmented by the elimination of numerous air leaks that had developed in the old siding around windows and doors or in sidewalls. This makes for a cleaner, less drafty home as well as a more comfortable one, Mr. Oakley says.

Of course, he adds, to insure a successful siding installation, you should look for a nationally known siding like Flexalum, with proper accessories, reliable workmanship, and a written guarantee backed by the manufacturer.

As an experienced siding firm, the Colonial Roofing is ready to answer all questions about this product.

Change Your Home to Electric Heat

You've heard a lot of talk about the advantages of flameless electric home heating compared to fuel-burning systems. And now, you think you might want to convert to flameless electric heating.

From every indication, you'll be taking a step in the right direction. Let's look at the average home, its heating needs, and the process of converting to flameless electric-heating.

You have a fuel-burning system, perhaps with warm air ducts to carry the heat throughout the house. Or, it might be a hot water or steam pipe system. In the basement, or a utility room, you have a large, cumbersome furnace which burns up the fuel to heat the air or water.

The hot air or water is forced through the ducts or pipes to the various rooms of the house. You're able to close or partially close a vent or radiator, here and there, in an unused area.

Occasionally, the furnace acts up and the repairman comes in. He leaves later, dirtier from rummaging around the furnace but richer for his efforts.

House cleaning is pretty regular; a film seems to settle over everything during the heating season.

The heat is turned down during the night, but if one of the children has the sniffles, you keep it higher than usual and sweat out the extra heat in your room.

Now you're beginning to picture yourself with flameless electric heating. And it sounds almost too good to be true. Enter a man with some facts on flameless electric heating.

The basic change would be the fuel-burning furnace. It comes out completely and leaves you with a lot of extra living space. With flameless electric heating, wires hidden in the walls or ceiling of your house are all that's needed to bring heating power to the rooms, according to the Edison Electric Institute.

Attractive baseboard radiators and wall panel units, or hidden wires embedded in the ceiling, do the actual heating. It's clean and 100% efficient. If you prefer to make use of your existing warm air ducts or hot water piping, you can install a compact flameless electric furnace or electric boiler. It's so small, it can be mounted inconspicuously on any wall and it eliminates all the problems of a fuel-burning furnace.

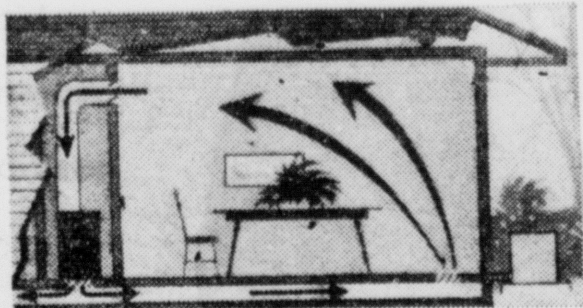

The cleanliness of the electric furnace won't impress a repairman too often, because it's unlikely that he'll be called.

Whatever flameless electric system you choose, you won't have any more grime, soot, or smoke, because no fuel is burned.

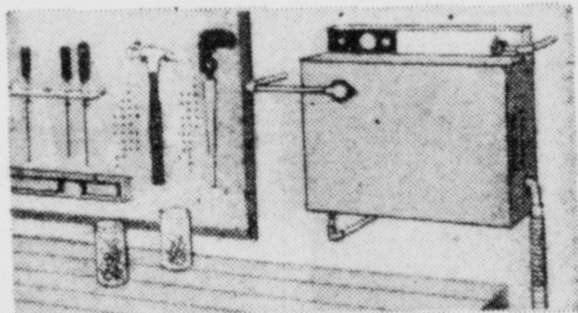

In addition, with many new flameless electric heating installations, you can have a thermostat in every room to give you precise room-by-room temperature control.

The fact that flameless electric heat is a fast growing way of heating in the U.S. today is proof that all this talk about flameless electric heat is really true. And, if you're still in doubt, check with any one of the more than three million families who are already enjoying flameless electric heat.

Plan Expandable Lighting

Lighting consultants and interior designers agree emphatically that home decoration is lost without light. Well planned lighting complements home decoration and furnishings, make rooms appear larger, and contributes so much to the livability of a home. Yet home lighting is near the top of the list of permanently installed equipment most commonly overlooked by new home buyers.

Homes awarded the Gold Medallion emblem provide for basic illumination and what might be termed "expandable lighting". The basic components of light for living required by Gold Medallion Home Standards call for permanently installed fixed lighting equipment in strategic areas. Control of lighting is also emphasized in the requirements for convenience, safety, and flexibility.

Perhaps the best lighting bonus a Gold Medallion Home affords the homeowner is the ability to add lighting equipment with minimum expense for rewiring work. Full Housepower requirements of a Medallion home provide ample electric capacity in the service entrance, circuiting, and convenience outlets for lighting expansion, both indoors and out. It is possible to easily add, at the owner's convenience, supplementary lighting for general use, task lighting, and decorative lighting.

A Medallion Home is also electrically expandable for out-door lighting. It may be simply lighting up for the holidays or more likely, lighting a patio, out-door living area or pool, or to beautify the property after dark with the latest popular innovation—landscape lighting.

Whatever the lighting need may be, elaborate or purely functional for safety, the electrical capacity to do so is one of the "values with vision" provided for in a Gold Medallion Home. The vast array of new lighting equipment available today in such a wide variety of brilliant colors and architectural designs makes it possible to create many moods for after dark living and entertaining.

Lighting can effectively accent a painting, planter, or fireplace. Lighting can dramatically "wash a wall" to highlight a mural emphasize texture or complement wood paneling. Lighting can be dimmed to candlebright for dining or raised to full brightness for reading and study. Lighting can discourage prowlers, provide security and safety.

Homeowners can easily fulfill all lighting needs in an electrically expandable Gold Medallion Home. Is it any wonder that Medallion homeowners are destined for a bright future?

Switch to Electric Heat Is Trend of Times

One of the greatest examples of man's rapid evolution into the space age is home heating.

Man's basic need for protection against a cold environment has been the same since the first cave-man roamed the earth millions of years ago. The means of satisfying that need, with wood burning fires, remained virtually unchanged until a mere 150 years ago.

In the earliest times man used what was most easily available to satisfy his heating needs. And that was wood. As he expanded from small caves to larger, multi-roomed caverns, then roughhewn huts, giant castles and finally homes, he brought his basic heating system with him. Each room had its own wood burning fireplace.

By the mid-1800's man discovered other elements that would burn — coal, and oil. As these became available he put them to use. Then his mind began to develop better ways of burning these heating fuels.

First the chore of hand feeding coal fires was eliminated with the automatic coal stoker. Then the burning of gas and oil took over, heating air or water which was circulated through the home from central furnaces.

It was around 1950 that a revolution in home heating was spurred by the advent of the flameless electric heating method — a complete departure from the historic fuel-burning method. Because flameless electric heating was a brand new concept in 1950, and the word wasn't out yet, at that time less than 25,000 homes were sampling this greatest step forward in heating comfort.

Since that time, however, its use has spread rapidly and today over three million homes enjoy the benefits of a flameless electric heating system.

The switch to electric heating has become the trend of the times and, by 1980, over 20 million homes are expected to be using flameless electric heating. The chief reason for this shift to flameless electric heat is the elimination of fuel burning and its many disadvantages.

Electric home heating has made cumbersome furnaces, soot and smoke, cold drafts and frequent repair bills a thing of the past.

Replacing the fuel-burning furnace is a simple resistance wire, which generates heat as electricity flows through it silently.

This simple technique has been adapted in several ways to provide room-by-room comfort control. The resistance wire can be embedded in ceilings to radiate heat uniformly like the sun, or encased in slim baseboards to surround the room with heat, or enclosed in wall heating units.

And comfort control for each room is no longer a matter of opening and closing dampers, turning radiator knobs or sliding vents. A pair of hidden control wires, leading to a wall thermostat in any desired location, permits individual temperature adjustment in every room of the house.

Home heating has come a long way in a relatively short time. While man's basic need for heating comfort has remained constant throughout the centuries of his existence, it wasn't until a scant decade ago that he finally achieved the ultimate in satisfying that need; through flameless electric home heating.

The Clean-Cut Answer To Heating Problems

What's your heating problem? Cold spots? Inadequate furnace? New room? Easy-to-install flameless electric heat is the clean, economical answer.

You may have a cold spot in an entry, oh a shivery over-the-garage bedroom. Or maybe you want to add a bedroom or finish a basement or enclose a porch. And you want to get adequate heat without tearing out all the walls.

According to the Live Better Electrically Program, supplementary electric heat is the way to get steady, clean, trouble-free heat to troublesome areas without upset and expensive installation.

Supplementary electric heat units work independently of your furnace and can be installed practically overnight. And because there is a wide variety of types available — radiant, hot water, convection and forced air — and because they are self-contained, thermostatically controlled and require no venting, they can be installed anywhere.

With a fan-driven, electric wall heater, which provides a large amount of heat from a small source, you can turn a cold entry way into a warm welcome.

Or you can take the "BR-r-r" out of the bath with an electric heating ceiling panel, which radiates gentle, draft-free heat downward.

And there's no need to wreck a "rec" room just to heat it. You can use easily installed small, fan-driven baseboard units or a beautiful electric fireplace that is a thermostatically-controlled electric heater.

And if your stumbling block in turning a wasted attic into a useful bedroom, playroom or hobby room is heating, go ahead.

With flameless electric heat, you can heat it easily without running ducts by insulating and installing electric baseboard heaters.

33—THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, MAY 16, 1969

Electric dishwashers are one of the most popular appliances with families living in carefree Gold Medallion Homes.

Gold Medallion Homes For Space Age Living

Most families have specific ideas about the need to make their home more convenient, more liveable, and more valuable as an investment. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home fulfills all these needs and is synonymous with modern space age living.

Nearly every source consulted these days tells of the benefits total electric living affords. Basically, a total electric home is one in which electricity does everything: heats and air conditions, cooks, does the laundry, washes the dishes, cleans, scrubs, heats water, provides lighting and entertainment and enhances personal comfort.

The heart of the Gold Medallion home is the wiring system which provides ample electric capacity for today's needs as well as spare capacity to "grow on." To get full performance from every appliance full Housepower wiring is a must. Sluggish performance of heating appliances, TV picture shrinking, lights dimming, fuses blowing, and the inconveniences and unsightliness of octopus outlets are all signs of inadequate wiring—annoyances seldom experienced in a Gold Medallion Home.

Versatility is the keynote of electric home heating systems. Among the many advantages of this flameless heat source are quiet operation and cleanliness. Because there is no combustion to cause soot or smoke, home cleaning chores are reduced to a minimum. The absence of vents and flues save space and help prevent heat loss. Once a family has experienced the comfort and living ease electric heat provides, it would be difficult to settle for less.

Planned lighting is another plus feature found in Gold Medallion Homes. Lighting is another ingredient (often overlooked) which contributes much to liveability and comfort. Lighting planned for a Medallion home includes general room lighting for seeability and safety, as well as the placement of fixed lighting equipment to provide an ample quantity of light at work areas where seeing tasks are performed. Total up these benefits along with the work-saving major appliances found in a Medallion Home and you will also discover what has been so appropriately described as the "carefree electric way" of living.

So many more prospective new home buyers each year are seeking out homes displaying the Gold Medallion emblem and joining the rapidly growing list of total electric living families.

Modern Means Air Condition

Planning to modernize a home homes are better mortgage without including central air risks.

conditioning? It's almost a contradiction in terms: We've reached a point where a truly modern home will nearly always be centrally air conditioned, according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Consider these facts: A Federal Housing Administrator pointed out that it will not be long before homes without air conditioning will be considered obsolete; a survey made for a national magazine showed that two out of three Americans now consider air conditioning a "necessity" in the home; one out of every three new homes built is centrally cooled; and two out of three of the savings and loan institutions surveyed by the U. S. Savings and Loan League said that air-conditioned

Put all these things together, and there's one answer. Home air conditioning is an essential ingredient in a real home modernization program. It will make the home more comfortable, and it's an investment, not an expenditure, because a home owner usually recovers the initial cost if and when he sells the home.

Many owners of older homes feel that a central air conditioning system will cost too much. Until firm bids have been obtained, there's really no way of accurately estimating what the cost will be.

For homeowners interested in air conditioning, ARI recommends asking two or three reputable contractors to visit the home, study the problem, and then submit written bids. Compare proposals to determine a definite price.

It is possible to centrally air condition almost any home effectively, no matter its age, size, or design. The cost of adding a central cooling system will depend on where you start out from.

For example, if the home already has a warm air heating system, a contractor probably will recommend that heating ducts be used to cool the house in the summer. This means the only cost will be the cooling equipment and its installation. If there are no ducts, however, getting them installed will add to the costs.

If the home has hydronic or "wet" heat, cooling equipment with its own means of air distribution will have to be installed. Frequently, in hydronically heated homes the contractor will recommend locating the air-conditioning equipment and ducts in the attic.

Modern air-conditioning equipment is compact, and there's usually no difficulty in finding a spot for it—in a basement, crawl space, attic, or even a closet.

A "split" cooling system reduces the amount of interior space needed. Evaporator coils are placed inside the home and the condenser-compressor located outside. About 80 per cent of all residential central cooling systems are of the "split" variety.

Proposals from contractors should be checked carefully to make certain they have recommended the same size of equip-

CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING systems can be installed in a variety of ways, to meet needs of homeowner and home. Cutaway drawings here show typical arrangements of ducts and location of air conditioning equipment in three different styles of homes — at top, bi-level or "Colonial," and ranch-style single level; at left, split level.

TO DECIDE WHAT MODERN, central air conditioning will cost, get written estimates from two or three good contractors, recommends the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Is Air Conditioning Good? Asks an Astronaut

Is air conditioning a good idea? Ask an astronaut.

America's spacemen, using the ultimate in scientific materials and equipment, are air conditioned.

The facilities they train and work in even their spacesuits are air conditioned.

Why? Because air conditioning is no longer a simple matter of comfort; it's a matter of health as well. The greatest demands of any profession are placed upon the astronauts in the national space program. That's quite a testimonial for air conditioning.

Medical science has found that air conditioning's ability to maintain a stable temperature for body, to filter out pollen and dust, and to dehumidify sticky warm air, provides better health and greater efficiency at work or play.

Fortunately, the average American doesn't need a costly space suit to enjoy the comfort and health benefits of air conditioning. Millions of homes, new and old, are being provided with the benefits of central electric air conditioning at a tiny fraction of the cost of a space suit.

The comfortable and dehumidified spring-like air of central electric air conditioning is just as important to America's families as it is the space program.

Today, the cost of an air conditioned space suit is $100,000. Some day in the future, the cost of a space suit will be only a few hundred dollars. And there was a time when a central electric air conditioning installation in the home cost many times as much as it does now.

Today, the average-size, three bedroom home can have central electric air conditioning for less than $1,000 in many areas of the country, and not much more in other areas.

For the astronaut, air conditioning means a healthier attitude and peak working efficiency.

For the homeowner central electric air conditioning also means greater comfort, a healthy attitude and a readiness to work play or relax at the fullest.

Flameless Electric Heat Cure for 'Furnaphobia'

The electric heat wave is hitting the country with the result that more than three million families have switched to the flameless way of heating. In some areas as high as 65 per cent of all new homes built are electrically heated.

And hundreds of thousands of commercial and industrial buildings are electrically heated, too. Among these are the world's second tallest building (the John Hancock building in Chicago) and the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D. C.

Electric heat has been growing by leaps and bounds, according to the Live Better Electrically Program, because it is unmatched for cleanliness, comfort and modernity.

And when it comes to efficiency, flame fuels can't hold a candle to flameless electric heat which operates at almost 100 per cent efficiency. What you pay for in electricity, you get back in a full measure of heat.

On top of that, flameless electric heat offers the widest choice of equipment so that you can pick just the right equipment or combination of the right systems for your particular needs.

Electric heating, like flameless electric air conditioning can emanate from individual units in each room or from a centrally located system. The variety of electric comfort equipment available today includes:

ELECTRIC HEAT PUMP provides both heating and cooling from a single unit. It can clean the air and dehumidify it, too.

The ELECTRIC BOILER hangs neatly on a wall and circulates warm water for heating throughout the house. It is the size of a portable television set. For central cooling, you can combine it with a water chiller or install a separate cooling unit.

The ELECTRIC FURNACE circulates filtered warm air. Any time you choose, you can Flameless electric furnaces are so compact that you can tuck them away in a closet or any other out-of-the-way place.

combine it with a central air conditioning unit, humidifier and electronic air cleaner. Because it is flameless and needs no chimney or flue, you can tuck it away in a closet, attic or any out-of-the-way place you many want it.

ELECTRIC BASEBOARD UNITS fit neatly against the wall and can match or blend with your room decor. With electric baseboard, you can have individual temperature controls in each room.

RADIANT CEILING HEAT consists of electric elements concealed in your ceilings.

Like sunshine, they provide radiant heat which warms you instantly. It also is controlled by individual thermostats in each room.

ELECTRIC WALL PANELS employ heating units concealed behind a decorative grill. They provide a combination of radiant heat with natural or fan-forced convected heat.

Local electric light and power companies or electric heating contractors can help you in choosing the right equipment to bring the gentle comfort of flameless electric heating and cooling to your home.

Electric Heat Works Well In Dad's Home Workshops

Dad was quite a handyman around the house, but was constantly bemoaning the fact that he had no workshop.

Then one day he decided to

Electric Dryer Helps Wrinkles

The flameless electric clothes dryer is the great relaxer; it relaxes the wrinkles in permanent press clothes and helps its happy owner to relax, too.

And what a home maker wouldn't be more relaxed? With the combination of today's flameless electric clothes dryers and today's miraculous durable press fabrics, clothes come out of the dryer ready to wear to school, work or play. And clean, wrinkle-free permanent press sheets and pillow cases can be back on the beds they were stripped from in a matter of moments.

Flameless electric dryers have many other carefree qualities, too, according to the Live Better Electrically Program. They cost less to buy (up to $40.00 less) and because they have fewer moving parts, maintenance costs are less.

And add to this the fact that an electric dryer has no flame, pilot light or flue and you have many of the reasons why flameless electric clothes dryers are the 2 to 1 choice in American households.

convert to flameless electric heating.

What's that got to do with workshops? The conversion removed a bulky, space-consuming fuel-burning furnace from his basement and replaced it with a compact, flameless electric furnace.

The former furnace room became Dad's workshop. Well, not all of it; a tiny closet in one corner was taken up by Dad's new flameless electric heat furnace—a furnace that's quiet as a mouse and compact besides.

Dad and Mom found many more advantages in their economical conversion:

—The boiler room which Dad thought could never be used as a workshop because of excessive heat belching from the old furnace was now as comfortable as his living room.

—The odors from the old furnace were gone too, and so were the smoke and soot.

—Dad found out it wasn't necessary to rip out walls or tear up floors for the conversion. The electric furnace simply "plugged into" his existing heating duct system.

—And Mom counted her blessings, too; no more grimy tell-tale film on curtains, walls and furniture.

—Best of all, when Mom and Dad were ready to sell their home, after the kids were off on their own, they found that conversion to electric heating was an investment that paid off handsomely at sale time.

All because Dad wanted a workshop? Not really. Mom and Dad found out, through a time of progress into modern conveniences, what their sons and daughters have long since taken for granted.

The advantages of flameless electric heating are reflected by the rapidly increasing number of conversions every year. According to the Edison Electric Institute, in the not-too-distant future, the majority of homes will have flameless electric heating systems.

Dad's experience pointed out that you don't have to have a new home to have the most modern in heating systems. Mom and Dad captured the modern in the charm of their older home, with a minimum of fuss and bother and the ultimate in convenience.

And Dad got a workshop out of it, too.

Electric Air Conditioning Turns Off Heat of Old Man Sun

The trend toward air conditioning in today's homes isn't really a slap at Old Man Sun. Americans are still seeking the hot summer sun for leisure time activities. Sun worshippers lie for hours under its tanning rays, then take a dip in the pool or ocean surf to cool off. Convertibles whiz down the highways—tops down—and passengers enjoy the sun's sparkle while the breeze keeps them comfortably cool.

But there's another side of America, a busy side in the home and at work. When mother's busy with the ironing, when the kids are romping around the playroom, when dad is working in the den, there's no place for the penetrating, irritating heat of a muggy summer day.

Flameless electric air conditioning — either central systems or individual room air conditioners — make it possible to turn off the heat of Old Man Sun — without really disputing his benefits.

Those benefits are fine when the family's ready for them. But in the home, electric air conditioning is the ticket. Here's why:

—You can keep the windows closed, to exclude rain, pollen, dirt, noise AND prowlers.

—You're comfortable during the day and getting restful sleep at night, with the hot, muggy summer air outside and cool, dehumidified air inside.

—You find yourself with renewed energy; the summer doldrums fed by heat and humidity are eliminated.

—Gone too are the summer rashes, prickly heat and baby's diaper rash; the whole family is cool, dry and comfortable.

—Ended is the traditional summer parade to the refrigerator and soft drinks which can cost more per day than the cost of operating your flameless electric air conditioning.

—And, with electric air conditioning, you've made a sound investment, increased the resale value of your home.

America's leisure time is on the increase. There's time for Old Man Sun activities. But, when you stop to think of it, most of that extra leisure time is being spent in the home, where so many more activities take place today.

The trend toward electric air conditioning isn't a slap at Old Man Sun. It's simply America's way of saying that now you can have more fun by staying at home.

Flameless electric air conditioning, either room units or central systems, keeps out in the penetrating muggy heat of summer, as well as outside dust, dirt and sneeze-causing pollens.

Gold Medallion Home Comes With 'Work Savers'

Of all the electrical features in a Gold Medallion Home, the work-saving appliances are most likely to attract the attention of homemakers. New 1969 models of these electrical servants are the ultimate in automation and design.

Regardless of its size or price at least four major appliances are standard equipment in a Gold Medallion Home. The kitchen features either a free-standing electric range or a built-in electric oven and counter-top cooking unit. It will also have a refrigerator or refrigerator-freezer and an electric water heater which insures an ample flow of hot water — so essential to modern everyday living.

The fourth appliance may be an electric clothes dryer, dishwasher, food waste disposer, air conditioner or some other highly desirable servant.

Refrigerators, '69 style, offer many new innovations which are exciting departures from traditions of past years. The new models introduce a choice of colors — inside and out. Designer doors give owners the option of inserting their own color panels to coordinate with the kitchen's decor. Some models feature completely automatic ice cube dispensers, built-in wheels for portability and cleaning, automatic defrosting, hidden door handles and bold new spacious designs.

Automatic electric water heating has been described as the "silent, sure way." Modern electric water heaters are flameless, pilotless, and can be installed almost anywhere without vents of any kind. They may be cleverly concealed in a cabinet or under the kitchen counter — located in a playroom, den — or even in a clothes closet.

In recent years, the dishwasher has rapidly become one of the most popular and most wanted appliances among American homemakers. Electric dishwashers are wonderful time and work savers. It's not necessary to rinse and scrape dishes beforehand — just tip-off large scraps and bones. At the push of a button dishes are rinsed twice and held until the dishwasher is full and ready for the complete washing cycle.

For many homemakers, this means washing dishes but once a day. Dishes come out sparkling clean, because they are washed in water much hotter than hands can stand.

Automatic dishwashers provide many other benefits of course, but one of the nicest dividends of all is the pleasure of more time to spend with the family. Entertaining is more fun and relaxing too when the dishwasher does the cleanup job. Life can be carefree and living much easier when electricity does the work. Total-electric living makes the promise of a "better way of life" possible today in a home displaying the Gold Medallion emblem.

No Electrical Traffic Jams

Gold Medallion Home is Wired for Living

Just as many of the country's major highways are overcrowded with bumper-to-bumper traffic, many homeowners are frustrated with overcrowded electrical highways. A home's wiring system has often been referred to as "the hidden highways over which electricity travels to reach its work."

To meet today's electric living needs, it's a fair assumption that homes having a 60 ampere electric service entrance capacity or less are as outdated for today's electrical usage as single lane highways are for meeting today's traffic demands.

Our affluent society has outgrown our nation's highways by the high saturation of cars just as rapidly as we have outgrown our home's electrical highways with the tremendous increase in purchase of new appliances. Symptoms of outdated electrical highways vary, but most of rated at 150 amperes (certainly the signs are obvious. Typical never less than 100 amperes), signs are frequently blown fuses ample circuit capacity for major or "tripped" circuit breakers; TV appliances, small appliance circuits, general purpose circuits, and plenty of convenience outlets and lighting outlets. Full Housepower also allows spare capacity for future electrical growth. . . .

You might say that full Housepower wiring is like building a six lane super highway with plenty of road room for future expansion. A highway where traffic always moves smoothly, completely free of road jamming bottlenecks. That's the kind of highways to have and the kind of an electrical system to have, too.

This frustration is unlikely to occur in a total-electric Gold Medallion home. One of the strict requirements a home must meet to earn the right to display the Gold Medallion emblem is full Housepower wiring. Full Housepower means a service entrance

Would you believe that Gold Medallion homes have super electrical highways concealed behind the walls? The next Medallion Home you visit is sure to make a believer of you.

For Health and Comfort

Install Electric Air Conditioning

Welcome a new member of the modern family: central electric air conditioning. Not too many years ago it was a luxury to be enjoyed by only a select few, a luxury of comfort. Today, central electric air conditioning is becoming a part of the family in more and more homes, not just for comfort but for better health as well.

Years ago, while home builders continued to polish their art of providing livability, with recreation rooms, dens and family rooms, the home without air conditioning remained a place to escape from on hot, muggy summer days. Or, it was a cell within which the only relief was cool showers or cold drinks from the refrigerator.

But the modern homeowner has discovered central electric air conditioning. He can now combine the conveniences of home life with livability on the hottest summer days and nights.

The element of comfort — a refreshing, springlike cool after being out in the heat of the day — is only a small part of the attraction of central electric air conditioning, according to Edison Electric Institute. The most important part is better health.

A built-in climate control system works to keep your own body temperature stable. This climate control system has to work extra hard to stabilize your body temperature during hot spells. Air conditioning takes the load off your natural climate control system. . . .

Furthermore, summertime is allergy time. Pollen and dust float freely with summer breezes, to the discomfort of persons suffering from allergies. Air conditioning traps the pollen and dust before it can attack allergy sufferers.

And lastly, each person requires a certain amount of restful sleep every night, to give his system a chance to recuperate and prepare for the next day. Hot, muggy, sticky nights close in on the efforts of sleep and leave a person tired and cranky the next morning. Air conditioning treats the sleeper to a full period of recuperation and lets him start the new day with renewed vitality.

With all these healthy things going for central electric air conditioning, it's easy to understand why it has become a vital part of every family in millions of modern American homes.

Cook Steak Within 90 Seconds

Busy homemakers can cook food in minutes with electric micro-wave ovens.

The bright, new ideas in cooking, are all-electric. Electricity that made possible the first self-cleaning ovens, is now powering the fast-cooking micro-wave ovens that are making life more carefree for working homemakers.

With the electronic oven, today's housewife can cook steak in 90 seconds and two-crust fruit pies and angel food cakes in a matter of minutes. And if she puts popcorn in the electric oven, it will pop instantly.

Microwaves, which are used to carry telephone calls and TV shows across the country, are the source of the almost-magic cooking in electronic ovens.

Because the food cooks so fast, there is no time for it to brown. Therefore, most electronic ovens provide a browning element within the range so that meats and cakes look—and are—as tasty as ever.

Today's bright new electric idea—the electronic oven—is available in counter-top models or as part of a complete electronic range. Some models on the market today include a lower oven that cooks electronically, conventionally or both at the same time and an upper oven for conventional cooking.

And the lower oven cleans itself and the panels from the upper oven and drip pans from the surface units all with clean, flameless electricity.

Electric Ranges Lead In Own Self-Cleaning

It was only natural that clean, flameless electricity would make possible the first self-cleaning ranges. And because electricity did pioneer the field of self-cleaning ovens, only electric self-cleaners have the strong benefit of having been consumer-tested in homes all over America for almost six years now, according to the Live Better Electrically Program. And in those six years, homemakers have found that something wonderful happens when your flameless electric range has a self-cleaning oven. Strong oven cleaning preparations, scrub brushes, rubber gloves and all the dirty work are banished forever.

When your oven needs cleaning, you just turn on the special cleaning cycle and clean, flameless electricity does the job for you.

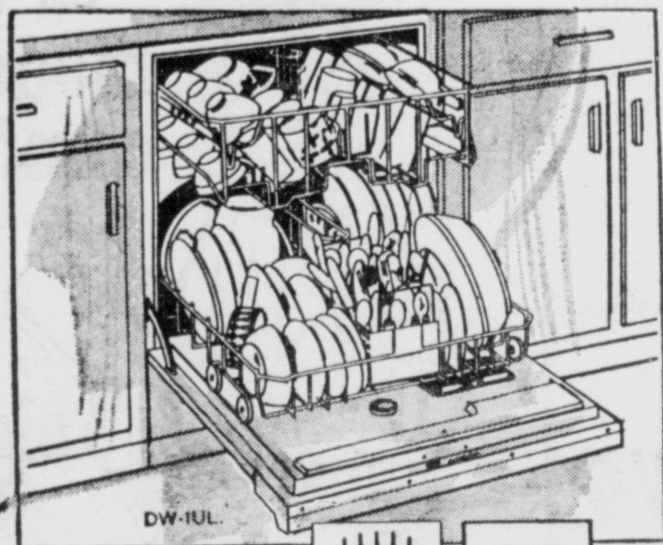

Baked on grease and drippings in the open vanish magically, leaving about as much ash as one flick of a cigarette as the only evidence that they were ever there. And one wipe with a damp cloth take care of that. In many models, you can also clean drip pans, racks and oven panels in your flameless self-cleaning oven.

To the busy homemaker, the electric self-cleaning feature is worth a fortune but costs only pennies per cleaning.

Flameless Electric Heat In Two Noted Buildings

If you have "furnaphobia," don't rush down to your corner psychiatrist because he won't be able to do a thing for you. Furnaphobia is the fear of fuel-burning furnace failures. It strikes thousands of homeowners annually.

The symptoms are easy to recognize. As the typical victim hears the roar of his fuel-burning furnace firing up at the start of heating season, he feels the first twinges of furnaphobia. Almost instinctively, he knows that at any moment this huffing and puffing giant may suddenly suffer a breakdown—leaving him with a cold house and giant repair bills.

The cause of failure may be a clogged burner or any one of the many working parts of a fuel-burning furnace. Whatever the cause, it invariably happens at the most inconvenient time and during the coldest weather.

Unless the homeowner is a mechanical genius who can make his own repairs on a complicated jungle of pipes, regulators and valves, he is in the tight grip of furnaphobia by the time the heating season draws to a close.

Each year, thousands of victims of this unusual malady take the permanent cure—they convert their fuel-burning system to flameless electric heating. In a flameless electric system, clean heat is created by electricity flowing through a resistance wire—no fuel is burned.

There's a wide choice of flameless electric systems with attractive baseboard radiator heating units, invisible radiant ceiling heat or individual wall panel heating units. There's even a flameless electric furnace or boiler that can be hooked directly into the warm air ductwork or hot water piping that was used for a fuel-burning system.

Once you get rid of the fuel-burning furnace, with all its attendant soot, noise and fuel problems, you can begin to appreciate the advantages of a flameless electric heating system.

Self-cleaning electric ovens that clean themselves the flameless way are available in built-in models, as well as in regular electric ranges.

Questions-Answers On Flameless Heat

Here are some questions frequently asked by people considering electric heat. You'll find the answers dispell some commonly-held misconception and put clean flameless electric heat at the top of the list for anyone considering installation of a new heating system or changing their present one.

Q. What does electric heat cost?

A. Electric heat costs will vary according to the house and the family living in it. A nationwide survey conducted by the Live Better Electrically Program, however, shows that over 90 per cent of homeowners who have converted to electric heat consider electric heat to be a worth-while investment. Forty-five per cent of those surveyed said that their total utility bills, including heating, were the same or less with electric heat than they had been before.

Q. Can a very old house be converted?

A. Any home can be converted to flameless electric comfort conditioning. Large and small; old and new; colonial and split level homes are all candidates for the most modern heat of all.

Q. What about insulation?

A. Insulation is the key to successful electric home heating. A properly insulated home retains more heat in winter and helps keep unwelcome heat and humidity out in the summer.

Insulation is very easy to add. The proper amount needed can be accurately determined by your electric utility or heating contractor to insure that your heating system will work less hard, run less often.

Q. Is insulation costly?

A. Adequate insulation pays for itself through savings in heating costs—not to mention the unparalleled comfort you enjoy. Most people consider the cost of insulation an investment repaid by lower heating and air conditioning costs.

FUTURO Resembles Flying Saucer

41—THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, MAY 16, 1969

NEW YORK (UPI) — Flying saucers in the sky? Quite likely. But not invaders from a far-off planet; the latest in vacation housing being delivered by helicopter.

The FUTURO, looking for all the world like a flying saucer, actually is a mass-produced, molded fiber-glass house, designed in Finland by architect Matti Suuronen and manufactured in this country by Futuro Corp. of Philadelphia.

H. L. Fruchter, president of Futuro Corp., said the houses will be produced initially in Philadelphia with plants planned for other sections of the country later. Demonstration "landings" of fully-assembled, helicopter transported houses will be made in Philadelphia May 14, and in cities such as New York and Denver at later dates, he said.

Constructed as a polyurethane foam insulated fiber-glass sandwich shell the unique, 5500-pound unit forms an ellipse with interior dimensions 26 feet in diameter, 11 feet high in the center. It accommodates up to eight persons when used as a beach house, ski or hunting lodge. It is available in several through-dyed colors.

Built-in Storage

For such vacation use, complete kitchen and bath facilities, all furnishings and storage are built in, and carpet is provided.

Interior outfitting of the units is completely flexible, Fruchter said, making them suitable also for motel units, ski and resort area lodges, beach or swimming pool cabanas, guest houses, studios, temporary classrooms or housing, portable housing for military or forestry personnel, children's camp bunks.

Hershey Vows To Retain Job As Draft Head

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—With some 200 "long-haired, runny-nosed, dirty-eared misfits" demonstrating outside the building in which he spoke, Lt. Gen. Lewis N. Hershey vowed to stay on as the nation's draft chief until he gets "sick or fired."

Hershey, 75, told an Armed Forces Day luncheon he skipped a breakfast invitation from President Nixon Thursday because he thought he might be fired.

"I suppose I was being invited over to be 'Dear Johned,' until I learned the chairman of the Armed Services Committee and another congressman had also been invited," Hershey said.

He quickly dismissed the protesters as "long-haired, runny-nosed dirty-eared misfits" and said he was beginning to believe that people who say the country is "sick" are sick themselves.

The Selective Service director said he drew up Nixon's lottery draft program last year at the request of President Johnson.

"It doesn't matter who did it unless something goes wrong," he said. "If it's good, somebody generally claims credit for it."

He said the lottery system would give the nation's youth "something approaching certainty" over their draft status if they make it through the age of 19, the primary age group to be covered by the lottery system.

In a typical vacation house, one-half the unit is living space featuring six built-in arm chairs, convertible for sleeping, with individual arm-rest lighting. A large center table includes a built-in fireplace-barbecue unit with ventilating hood above it. There is an individual bedroom with built-in double bed and separate kitchen and bath space. The kitchen includes electric or gas stove and refrigerator, optional microwave oven, dishwasher and garbage disposer. The bath includes shower and either conventional or chemical toilet. Built-in storage utilizes available space in all rooms.

Windows

Sixteen elliptical windows of double-paned formed acrylic ring the mid-section of the house, with four additional "viewing" windows placed either above or below this line to take advantage of the individual terrain. Windows may be stationary or operable, as desired.

The houses, Fruchter said, can be heated from minus 22 degrees to 72 degrees in 30 minutes. Either electric or gas heating is available and air conditioning is optional. Entry is through a retractable stairway which makes for maximum security.

Site preparation, Fruchter explained, involves only pouring of four, in-ground concrete piers to which the house's tubular steel legs are bolted. The legs are proportioned to allow for use on either level or sloping locations. Usual plumbing and utilities may be connected where they are available, but a variety of special, independently operated utilities are provided for use in remote areas.

Because the houses are movable — by helicopter when fully assembled, by truck or rail when disassembled and nested in 16 sections — land tax may not be affected by their use, Fruchter said.

Maintenance Free

He said the units are virtually maintenance free, with an estimated life span in excess of 30 years. The snow load is rated in excess of 20 feet; wind load 150 miles per hour. The house is mechanically and chemically sealed against water and air infiltration. Ventilation is by means of positive pressure system.

Fruchter said the houses will carry Class I or II fire ratings and will be suitable for sparsely developed areas, or those conforming to National Building codes. Five or 10-year financing and all-risk insurance is available, he said.

The houses selling around $12,000 plus delivery are delivered by helicopter fully assembled within a 75-mile radius of the factory. Elsewhere shipment is by train or truck with final assembly at the site.

Enhance Homes—Planning, Planting

a dramatic landscape, color blazing with the change of each season, can really make a showcase setting for a house, especially when the flowering plants complement the natural terrain and indoor color scheme.

For landscaping that gives continuity to the atmosphere created within the home, all that's needed is a little money in the savings account, some creative talents and a good workable plan to fit the budget.

Setting Up a Budget

Whatever the landscaping plans, a rough estimate can be obtained by talking things over with a reputable nurseryman, garden center dealer or landscaper. Many homeowners might find it necessary to work out a budget to complete the job over a few years.

Large future expenses — a swimming pool, sundecks, banked terraces or patio — could be planned for and paid for with savings.

Then there are those who'd rather get the entire job done at once, so they can immediately enjoy new lush surroundings. This can be done without ready cash by borrowing landscaping money from a local full service bank. Where landscaping costs are really extensive — say $300 or $400 — a bank home improvement loan might be considered.

Unlike the FHA Title I loan which can be used only for permanent structural improvements, many full service bank modernizing loans are more flexible and can be used to finance landscaping costs.

Some banks may lend as much as $5000 with up to five years to repay, and interest

Filtering Water

Attached to cold water line under kitchen sink, Aqua-Pure P50 home water filter takes unpleasant tastes, odors—of sulphur, chlorine and other substances—out of drinking water. Activated charcoal cartridge inside filter is changed twice a year.

rates are from about five to seven dollars per $100 a year, depending on locality.

Where only $500 or $600 is needed to either start off a garden project or to use for final touches on an already established landscape, a low cost personal bank loan is an ideal way to finance.

Spending Money Wisely

Spending Money Wisely

It is important here to shop carefully and tailor spending to fit the budget.

Take trees, for instance. Good-sized balled-and-burlaped flowering trees — such as magnolia, crabapple, golden chain — might cost from $20 to $50 each. However, bare root whips of the same varieties might only run about four dollars apiece.

Too, if inexpensive flower seeds are used for annuals and larger amounts are invested in roses, tulips, chrysanthemums and other perennials, a flourishing budget garden can be created.

Indoor Rooms - - They Open To the Charms of Outdoors

There's no doubt that cold dreary days become brighter when Mother Nature is at work at 11 months of the year. So say those happy homeowners who have turned their porch or patio area into a year-round garden room and now enjoy blossoming plants and flowers on winter's bleakest days.

During warm weather shades are raised and windows opened to make the room an extension of the regular garden. Once the thermometer dips and the sun retreats, however, the garden atmosphere remains sunny and bright.

It's quite a simple conversion. Economical in the long run, too, since it adds an extra room for family living to be used all the year round.

Important first step is to enclose the porch and or patio area with windows. Double-paned insulating glass also prevents condensation and eliminates the need for storm sash.

Flooring next. An attractive, easy-to-care for floor for an indoor outdoor garden room might be created with vinyl asbestos tiles which can be installed over concrete or wood.

An interesting "Garden Walk" look can be achieved by a combination of patterns.

Use two patterns that simulate embossed stone and one that copies pebbles. Lay them in garden walk fashion.

Construct a shelf-type window seat the length of the windows. On it, and on the floor directly below, place a row of plants brought indoors in the same clay pots in which they were standing outside. Arrange them in long shallow tin flats to provide a convenient method for watering as well as adding a true garden atmosphere.

To replace the glorious array of flowers growing in the garden in springtime, cover windows with shades of brilliantly printed oversized flowers. This same pattern canvas or sailcloth can be used for furniture's slipcovers.

Electrical light will of course replace sunlight as days grow short by the windows of double-paned insulating glass allow whatever natural sunrays that exist to come in to nourish the plantlife.

Should additional indoor heating be needed, as most likely will be the case, install baseboard and ceiling heating units that provide warmth and comfort and don't interfere with decor.

Potted Plants Add Beauty

The modern look of container gardens reflects the need for maintenance-free outdoor living.

Potted flowers and greens of all sizes and shapes mean releases from the drudgery of caring for extensive planted areas.

Container gardens are weedless and mobile. They require a minimum of care and can be imaginatively used to decorate any outdoor area.

Decks and patios used for relaxing or outdoor entertainment are naturals for potted plant displays. An expanse of wooden fence or garage wall benefits, too, from the addition of a clay pot garden.

Before deciding on outdoor locations for container plants, the requirements of the plants should be considered. Some locations receive full sun, while others are semi-shaded. Plants should be placed accordingly.

Geraniums will thrive in sun-drenched areas. Potted mums, available all year round, also do well in the sun.

Right for shaded areas are tuberous begonias, fuchsias, or vivid cinerarias. They'll do well on protected porches, underneath a garage overhang, or in the shade of a tree.

Decorator Shelving

Trend Bookshelf-Room Dividers from S. A. Hirsch Manufacturing Co., Skokie, Ill., offer decorator features in steel shelving. Adjustable walnut woodgrain shelves with end bars have pebbled finish. Polished pewter posts are completely enclosed.

INDOOR-OUTDOOR GARDEN ROOM MAKES IT spring-time all the calendar through. In remodeled porch or patio area, vinyl asbestos tile simulates a garden path when two tones of embossed-stone look are combined with another pattern that copies pebbles. GIANT PUMPS — Eight giant pumps, with a total capacity of more than 5,500,000,000 (5.5 billion) gallons of water per day, will guard New Orleans against flooding. Sun Inspires New Home Heating

Does the sun warm the air around us? Answer, no—we do! And that's one reason why, come fall and winter, people may feel chilly even when the furnace is going.

The sun shines down on people and the earth without warming intervening air. Objects are warmed first, then they warm the air.

Radiation is the answer. Heat flows from warm to colder surfaces—thus, loss of body heat in cold weather may be due to radiation of warmth to chillier objects.

One new idea based on solar radiation principles is overhead heating. Ceiling-mounted electric panels radiate heat from above. Located near doors and windows where heat loss is greatest, the panels reduce body heat loss.

Everything in the room is warmed directly by the rays—a chair, a table, the floor, the walls, an adult, a child. Then the air warms.

Electric radiant heating panels have no moving parts, may be positioned on or in the ceiling and may be painted to match. Thermostats can be installed for each room.

Planting Lillies

Lilies usually thrive in soil with some acidity, and in locations that combine ample sunshine with protection from wind.

Pool Helps Family to Keep Fit

It takes some families almost two years from the time they come to the conclusion that they would be happier with a swimming pool to the time when they take their first dip. This was one of the findings of a motivational research study just completed for the National Swimming Pool Institute.

Pool Safety

For some 4,000,000 American homeowners, a new job has been added to traditional springtime home improvement chores — getting the family pool in shape for the summer season.

Assuring pool safety begins with springtime precautions, to eliminate common hazards and to make sure the proper equipment is at poolside to cope with any accidents that may occur.

Dr. John Henderson, medical director of Johnson & Johnson, gives several safety suggestions.

In addition to normal pool maintenance steps, the following checklist is recommended:

1. All electrical connections should be properly grounded with special attention given to filter motor and lighting. Extension cords should be checked for proper gauge, and electrical outlets repaired.

2. Repair of loose or broken concrete, tile or wood in deck areas is important. If there is a grassy area around pool, it should be free of stones, pebbles and other debris which might injure people emerging barefoot.

3. Wooden decks, benches should be sanded and refinished to avoid splinters; pool ladder checked to make sure all rungs are tight, properly finished and free of splinters.

4. If pool is left filled with water over the winter, it must be treated properly to be sure it is fit for swimming. It will

Cars, which generally cost what a pool does, are bought with very little advance study by the family. Yet the car purchase has a built-in depreciation in value, while a pool adds to the value of a home, as well as to family pleasure.

A pool is considered a home improvement, and can be financed either through a bank loan, or through the contractor who builds the pool.

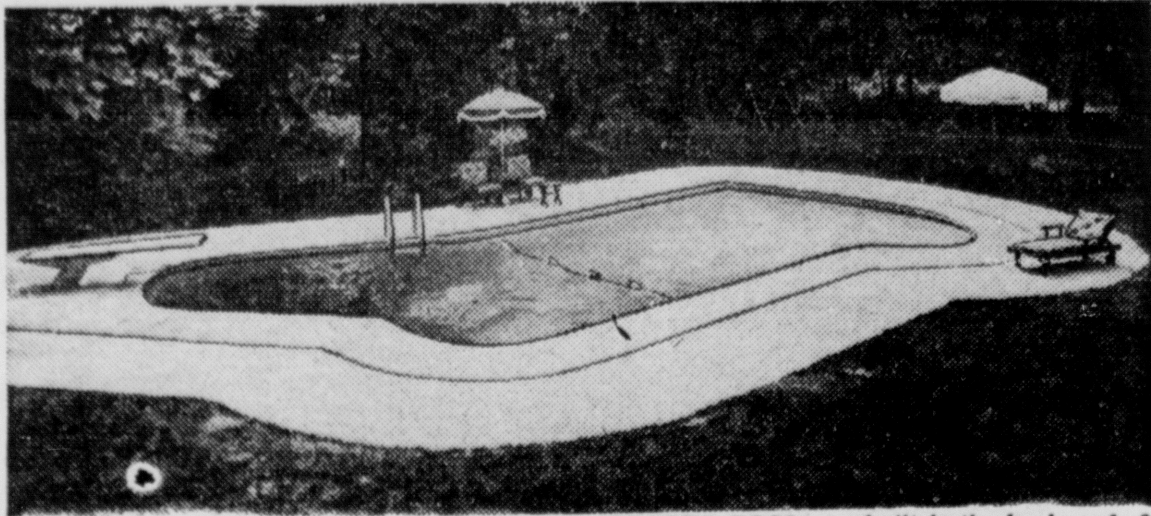

Families with members who love to swim make their decisions more quickly and easily, according to the study. They know the benefits of being able to take a dip at their own pace, at any time of the day or evening.

The women queried in the survey said they breathed easier at the thought that the children are in a place where they can have fun and be supervised, without intruding on their feeling of freedom and relaxation. Mothers also liked the idea of knowing the children's friends when they are invited over to swim.

Families responding to a question about the changes in their lives since owning a pool said most frequently, "It's such an easy way to keep fit, and such fun."

Aluminum Siding

Reproductions of natural wood grain and marble patterns appear in new line to aluminum sidings from Alside, Inc. The sidings have a silicone-based finish for resistance to wear, weather, heat and moisture, as well as peeling, flaking, cracking or chipping.

AT A COST UNDER $4,000, INTERESTINGLY-SHAPED POOL was built in the backyard of a Maryland home. It was placed in a corner of the lot, so that the tall trees of a neighboring lot form a screen for privacy and scenic beauty. A picket fence encloses the entire family property, acting as a deterrent to uninvited guests. Deck space is provided for lounging.

For Home Office

For Dad's den, homemaker's office or students' homework center, new furniture from Art Metal comes in units that are interchangeable, mobiles and flexible in function. For instance, a work table becomes a desk, a file unit changes to a partition. Desks, files and mobile partitions are finished in Artex textured nylon, acoustically engineered to disperse sound.

Planting for Summer Patio Fun

With another season for outdoor living on their minds, a lot of homeowners are taking a look at their patios—or the spot where they wish they had a patio—and wondering what improvements might be made.

Whether you're planning to improve your existing patio or construct a new one, there are some fresh ideas being suggested by the American Association of Nurserymen. The easiest way to improve your outdoor living facilities, the Nurserymen say, is to plant for patio pleasure.

If you're constructing a new patio, plan it around an existing tree. An opening in the patio design for a tree or shrub will add beauty and coolness on summer days. If you will be improving the patio you already have, see if there isn't a way for you to plant a small tree within the patio design.

Avoid "messy" trees over the patio. Trees that drop flowers, shed bark, or have undesirable fruit will just be a bother.

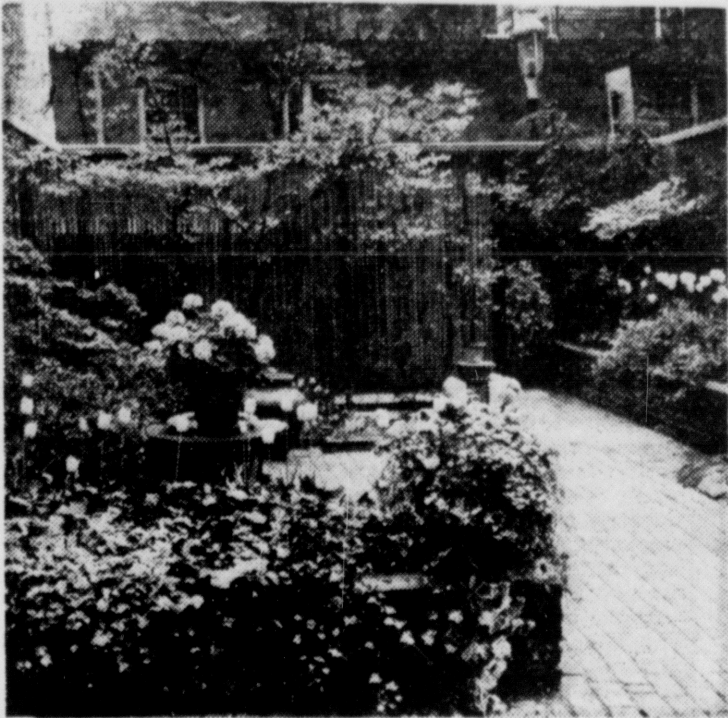

A patio should have a wall or fence wherever it's needed to block out unsightly views; other than that, though, the fence or hedge should not be taller than one foot, because higher enclosures will have a confining effect. A low wall of shrubbery will set the patio apart from the rest of the yard without creating a sense of closeness.

Building or remodeling a patio gives a garden enthusiast the opportunity to let his imagination run wild. A curved flower bed, a wading pool, a little area of turf within the patio—these are just a few of the planting ideas you can experiment with. And if such permanent innovations are not practical, you can add charm with potted geraniums or other plants in containers.

Even the smallest home landscape has room for a patio. Make yours a cool, green, inviting place for outdoor living.

AN EXAMPLE OF AN IMPROVED PATIO

Portable Gardens: A Change of View

The housewife who loves to rearrange the furniture every now and then can have great fun with a kind of garden that is booming in popularity. It's called container gardening.

Every kind of plant from petunias to pine trees are being grown in containers that can be moved around wherever they are most effective or most needed. Shrubs, trees, vines... every kind of plant can be moved from indoors to out, from front yard to patio, at a moment's notice. They can be in the spotlight when they are looking their best and banished when they go into a decline. A new garden can be beautified instantly with pots of geraniums, begonias or petunias.

If you are planning to do some container growing, these general principles from the American Association of Nurserymen will be helpful.

The containers you use must be strong and able to stand continual moisture. Wooden boxes, tubs, barrel halves, and other similar containers are available at garden supply centers, or you can use your imagination in creating your own. If you do build your wooden containers, be sure to use a moisture-resistant wood such as redwood or cedar. Clay pots are another good choice, and they come in a wide range of sizes and shapes. The plants in your containers will dry out much faster than those growing in the ground, so you'll have to water them frequently—probably every day during hot weather. The soil you use must be porous and yet moisture-retentive. Make sure the container has drainage holes to permit the excess water to run off.

With frequent watering, food supplies are washed away and need to be replenished often. The Nurserymen suggest a complete plant food, preferably one of the liquid or completely soluble kinds. Use it about every three weeks once plants are established and growing.

Since the big advantage of container gardening is the movability of your plants, these tips on transportation are worth remembering. Plan your moving in advance, if you can, so you can let the soil get somewhat dry in order to reduce the weight. Then set the container on a dolly, or a flat snow shovel, or a piece of canvas to make the trip easy.

This spring, plan to do some of your gardening in containers. It can be a moving experience.

NEED MORE SPACE? Check the basement—before planning an addition, is suggestion here. Large, unfinished basement (R) is transformed into family room above.

TO ENHANCE BEAUTY of fieldstone fireplace and stairway, wormy chestnut paneling was used in the modernization, which included vinyl flooring. Plastic-finished hardboard paneling from Marlite.

Prefinished Materials Help Home Rejuvenation

To growing families and grown-up families of every size the conquest of space begins at home.

Families looking for more space often overlook the solution of an unfinished or unsightly basement—but the basement, which may be little more than a storage room or a place for the kids to play on a rainy day, very likely has unlimited modernization potential.

The built-in addition of privacy that every member of the family wants for reading, writing, hobbies and informal entertaining is basic to a basement—whether it's in an old or new home.

Before proceeding with plans for remodeling, however, the homeowner should review his basement with a contractor, architect or building material dealer to see if it has the room and flexibility that is needed.

Another point worth considering is the advisability of expanding the home improvement project to include some exterior changes along with the basement remodeling job. This has the advantage of coordinating the appearance of a basement and a basement entryway.

Once started, rejuvenating the appearance of the basement becomes an easy accomplishment with the help of the many prefinished building materials available.

Interior paneling and exterior siding in a wide range of choices can help to create an individual look and a family room suitable for every purpose and need.

Space-stretching techniques vary with the size and condition of the basement. In one old house with a roomy basement, the natural fieldstone stairway and fireplace provided the nucleus for the "new look."

Wormy chestnut paneling in washable, plastic-finished hardboard was installed throughout the room. Vinyl flooring, posts and beams to conceal built-in lighting and a few pieces of Early American furniture completed the modernization of a now-comfortable living area.

Newer homes, while they lack the rambling basements of yesteryear, are candidates for basement remodeling jobs, too. For instance, a small basement in a typical tract house was transformed into an unusual recreation area by opening up one wall to the outdoors and raising the floor to form a conversation pit around the fireplace.

Pecan plywood paneling provided an elegant backdrop for the copper fireplace and colored accessories.

A suspended ceiling system with translucent fiberglass was added to conceal the old rafters, left exposed in the stairwell for design interest.

Meanwhile, outside, prefinished siding with matching batten strips added architectural distinction to the new entry to the remodeled basement. An amber bottle glass skylight helped to dramatize the entryway.

For interiors, prefinished paneling to suit any job is available in various sizes for easy handling and in a diversity of wood grains.

A Question About Floor Covering

Why do you try to sell linoleum by the yard—faster than you try to sell tiles?

I will assume we are talking about us installing both. I feel tiles you never wear out — you eventually kick them out! Yard goods or 6 foot wide material has only a few seams where tile has many. Tile is much easier to install — so people do it themselves.

Old Basement Has New Look

From basement "black eye" to handsome, functional recreation area—that's the history of many eye-catching home improvements, particularly for families with a flare for the dramatic.

Even the worst eyesore can often be converted into a striking room.

Several stages are involved in a basement modernization: Planning, financing, selection of materials, installation and finally, furnishing. Every step complements the other, and none should be ignored if the change is to be dramatic and the new room a joy to have.

A dry basement is a prerequisite. Waterproofing compounds are available. Paneled walls should be backed by a vapor barrier, as well, and a dehumidifier may be needed to keep the room fairly dry.

"What to do first" is the question that must be answered by the family head, who should lead the family planning sessions to determine for what purposes the space will be used, and then steer the project through its successive stages.

Allocating space and making a rough sketch are ways of crystallizing ideas. Available finances will determine, perhaps whether this is to be a do-it-yourself project or a professional undertaking.

If the family members are to participate, jobs should be allocated and the work directed. Otherwise, a contractor should be hired on the basis of bids made on the family's specifications, including materials, layout, basis of payments, completion date and guarantee.

An important key to a successful basement transformation is the selection of materials for walls, ceilings and floors. These and the furnishings should be coordinated for the best effect.

Lumber and building materials dealers often are helpful in selecting materials for walls, ceilings and floors. Many handle complete lines of decorative, prefinished hardboard panels, which come in a variety of textures and finishes to meet any decorating requirements.

When to Pick

Pick flowers during the early morning or early evening. They fade faster when picked under hot sun.

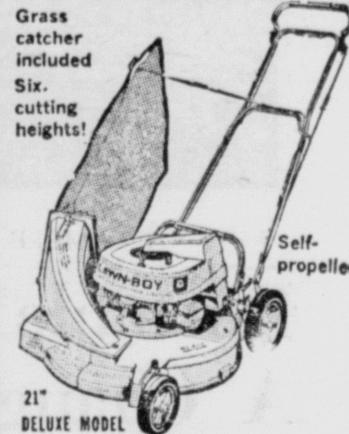

Mirror Tiles

Do-it-yourself mirror tiles have been introduced by Hamilton of Indiana, Inc., Chicago. The 12 x 12 inch tiles feature adhesive strips that stick to any clean surface of wood, metal, plaster or glass.

Reminder For Home Buyers

Nearly three million American families now have a second home that ranges from a summer cabin in the mountains to a fully equipped year-round house for weekends.

A second home can be wonderfully relaxing, but every prospective home buyer should heed this reminder: Make sure a new home has an ample supply of safe running water.

Surveys show that the average family moving to the country wants to take along as many city comforts as possible. This includes plenty of running water for cooking, bathing, dishwashing and laundering.

The solution may be a private water system, consisting of a well, an electric pump, controls for turning the pump on and off and a storage tank.

Installation should be made by a water system specialist.

Redwood for garden structures may be finished with a bleach or stain. Or, it may be left unfinished, to weather naturally.

Include Family

Paint up, fix up. Start now on those improvements, and make home improvement a family affair.

IMPORTANT FACTOR — Family that plans together can have the most satisfactory home improvement project, for it is most likely to fulfill the wants of all members. Whether an indoor modernization, room addition or exterior patio is the aim, the family conference is an important factor in its success. Additional benefits come as a spirit of cooperation and better understanding is developed. For the family-planned project, modern building materials such as hardboard paneling help to speed redecorating and remodeling. Suggested by Masonite Corporation, maker of Royalcote predecorated hardboard panels.

Improvements Start Best With Family Conference

Those home improvement projects, getting under way now in homes across the nation, usually turn out to better advantage when they begin with a family conference. With all family members participating in the planning, each has a say on ideas that will benefit the individual and the family, too.

The spark that ignites most home improvement projects is a complaint, wish or demand by some member of the family. The teen-agers may want a patio and fence. Mom might hope for an improved laundry room. Dad a workshop in the basement. Sue could suggest a hobby area, Tom a place for table tennis.

"One idea may spark another. The thing for Dad or Mom to do at this stage, presuming they agree that 'something should be done,' is to fan the sparks with

For Showering

Precision showerhead called "Mark Sixty" has 60 directional spray jets which form a filled-in spray pattern instead of the conventional ring of water, with a wide selection of spray patterns and water intensities.

Protecting Home

Random "off" feature to help create the illusion that a house is occupied when residents are away is highlight of a new indoor protective lighting timer from Paragon Electric Co., Two Rivers, Wis. Timer can be set to turn lights on and off and any schedule. Random "off" button provides varying "off" times.

Bathtub Appliques

Appliques from Rubbermaid are designed to provide safety and add a decorative touch in tub or shower. The adhesive-backed appliques in daisy shapes and white or colors, can be applied to tub or shower floor for a nonslip surface and safe, comfortable sitting or standing.

a family home improvement planning session," suggests Alan B. Cook, marketing services vice president of Masonite Corporation.

Since family interests and money are concerned, the approach to a remodeling project should be businesslike as well as fun. For instance, Dad can post a notice of the first family meeting, announce its objectives and urge each one to bring in ideas for discussion.

All Should Be Heard

Each person, of whatever age, should have a chance to be heard. The "secretary" (Mom, no doubt) will keep a record of the meeting.

With initial ideas discussed, Dad can assign each person to research his or her pet proposal. Then the next meeting can hear brief verbal reports and general discussion.

This could be the time for deciding on the nature of the improvement, how much can be spent, whether it will be do-it-yourself or contracted, and the time schedule.

If do-it-yourself workmanship is involved for economy, Dad can assign jobs and even instruct his helpers in the ABC's of construction. Also, he and Mom should take responsibility for selecting materials to be used.

At an early point in the planning, the family's consolidated plan should be put on paper. This is the time to decide on space allocations, furnishings and "Togetherness" or "apartness." It wouldn't be wise to have Dad's workshop next to space wanted by Sue for a music center.

Partitions of predecorated hardboards help solve the problem of privacy despite proximity.

Checking on Materials

In addition to a plan, the family should list materials wanted, specifying styles, colors and brands. Since a remodeling project involves various materials, the family could go as a committee to inspect siding, paneling, ceiling material and flooring, for instance.

The average family may want some expert advice in the selection of colors, lighting fixtures and other facets of the decor and built-ins.

If a contractor is involved, the project can proceed under its own steam with the family members looking in on the job to check workmanship and accuracy in following the plan. If it's a do-it-yourself job, then either Dad or a friend who has some construction know-how should be invited to participate.

Whether a room addition, a basement improvement, a patio or a garage-to-family room conversion, a home project initiated by the whole family and carried out by the members is a positive step forward. The experience of tackling a family venture on a businesslike basis can have lasting advantages for all.
